Warships Battle Italians at Corfu

GREECE FIGHTS BACK

ATHENS, Oct. 28 (AP)—Greece was attacked by land and air today and hurled her small army against strong Italian forces rather than bow to Italian demands for Greek territory and free passage for Fascist troops.

Italian motorized units thrust across the mountainous Greek-Italian frontier at 5:30 a. m., half an hour before the expiration of an Italian ultimatum, a Greek communique said.

Italian warships and fighting planes were believed to have joined in the onslaught.

A report from Belgrade said Italian troops had smashed six miles into Greek territory and captured the town of Kotur, Greek soldiers, after briéf skirmishes, reportedly retired in the face of the advancing invaders. —Editor's Note.

The British fleet came to the aid of Greece, informed sources said, and took over the strategic 150-mile long island of Crete.

British warships also were reported to have engaged Italian naval units in a stiff battle off Corfu, Ionian Island, just opposite the juncture of the Albanian and Greek frontiers, and to have occupied a small island with an airdrome nearby.

Crete, reported being occupied by landing parties from other British warships, lies in the eastern Mediterranean southeast of the Greek mainland.

REPORT TURKES AIDING

Still other reports, these from reliable neutral sources and not officially confirmed, said Turkish troops, responding to Greece's call for help, were marching into Thrace and eastern Greece. There was no immediate confirmation from the Turkish legation here. Earlier the Greek government issued this communique:

"Premier Metaxas conferred early this morning with the British minister, who told him that Greece in her fight against Italy would have the unreserved support of England to the fullest extent. British support will be unlimited. Metaxas also conferred with the Turkish minister to Athens and immediately afterward communicated by telephone with the Greek minister in Ankara. The premier later communicated by telephone with the president of the Turkish republic, Inonu."

In Athens, the government of "strong man" Gen. John Metaxas announced that Britain was sending "unlimited support."

By early afternoon Athens had had six air raid alarms and Italian bombers had passed over the ancient capital four times, but no bombs were dropped here.

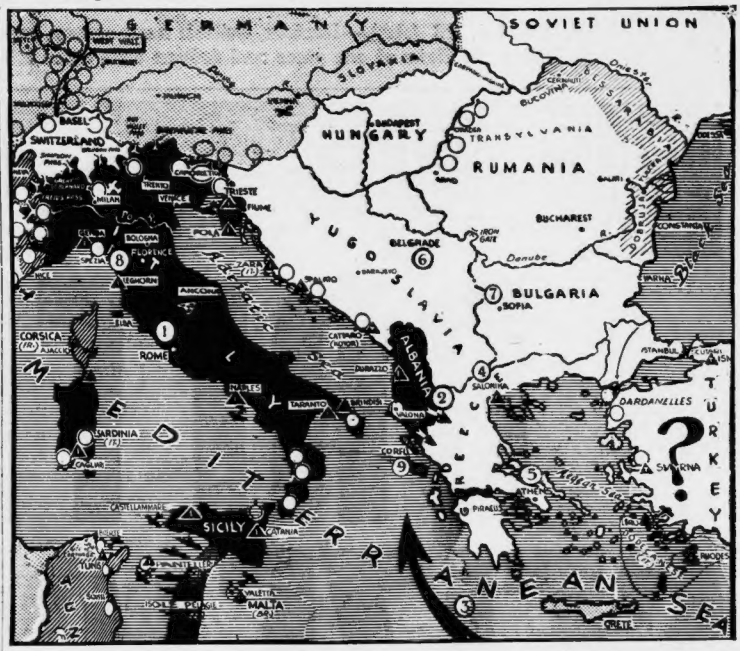
Hitler, Duce Take Time Out to Attend Concert

FLORENCE, Italy, Oct 28 (AP)—After luncheon today Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini (in conference here to decide the fate of the world) were guests at a special concert of chamber music in Pitti Palace, famed for its art treasures.



NEW ARENA OF WAR—As Rome's (1) ultimatum to Greece expires, Greek Minister Rosetti declares a state of war exists between Italy and Greece . . . and the scene of hostilities shifts. Italian troops and planes cross the Albanian border (2) . . . and British rush Mediterranean fleet (3) toward Salonika to aid Greece (4). Athens (5) has its first air raid alarm . . . and reports from Belgrade (6) tell of fighting at the Albanian-Greek border. Sofia (7) orders its first blackout . . . while the world awaits outcome of the meeting in Florence (8) of Hitler and Mussolini. Naval action is reported off Corfu (9). Meanwhile, interest centers on what action Turkey might take.

HITLER AND DUCE IN 3-HOUR PARLEY ON GREEK CRISIS

FLORENCE, Italy, Oct. 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini talked in complete harmony "on all present questions" here today as Italy took what were described as "urgent measures required to face the danger of the situation" in Greece.

A communique issued after the Axis leaders' first three-hour session merely said that their conversation, "In the spirit of the alliance between the two countries, developed as always in the most cordial form and shows a complete identity of views on all present questions."

When their conference ended at 1:40 p. m., Hitler and Mussolini, with their respective foreign ministers, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano, drove through the rain to the government palace for luncheon. Crowds lined the streets to watch.

Hitler and his staff left for Germany at 6:20 p. m. aboard the Fuehrer's special train. Mussolini and Ciano left in separate trains shortly afterward, Ciano to return to Rome and Il Duce for an uncertain destination believed to be either the capital or Forli, his former home.

The conversations took place in the medieval battlements of Palazzo Vecchio on the 18th anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome, which put Il Duce in power in Italy.

Mussolini's train arrived in Florence about 10:40 a. m. His foreign minister, Count Ciano, had arrived earlier.

Hitler's train arrived about 20 minutes later.

As soon as the Fuehrer stepped from the train he and Mussolini exchanged salutes and handshakes, reviewed an honor guard on the platform and then passed through the royal waiting room to a square in front of the station.

King George and Churchill Pledge Every Aid to Greece

LONDON, Oct. 28 (AP)—Both King George VI and Prime Minister Winston Churchill have promised Greece every possible help against the Italian invaders in personal messages to the Greek sovereign and prime minister, it was learned tonight.

The messages, from King George VI of England to King George II of Greece, and from Churchill to Premier John Metaxas, conveyed Britain's "positive" assurances that she intends to redeem the pledge of support in the event of attacks which was given to Greece by the Chamberlain government in April of 1939.

These assurances were dispatched in response to Greece's appeal for help. Presumably they were given to Greek Minister Simopoulos when he saw Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax at the foreign office this afternoon.

Greece's premier made his appeal through Sir Michael Palairet, British minister to Greece.

Asked if Greece could now be regarded as an ally, an authoritative spokesman replied.

"Assuming that hostilities have begun, yes."

Despite persistent reports, however, that the Mediterranean fleet was already steaming to the aid of Greece, authoritative sources said they had no information whatever on the possible beginning of a British campaign.

ENVOY KENNEDY DUE TO BACK 3D TERM ON AIR TOMORROW

(Special to the Boston American)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—Joseph P. Kennedy, newly returned Ambassador to Great Britain, will make a sweeping endorsement of the Roosevelt administration and advocate a third term for the President when he speaks over a nationwide radio hookup from New Yorw tomorrow night. This is revealed from an unimpeachable source close to the White House today previous to the diplomat's own announcement of his plan to speak.

During the four-hour conference which Kennedy had with the President last night, the speech was suggested by Roosevelt and agreed to by the Ambassador, who had previously stated that he would give the Washington press a full account of his plans and policies following the White House chat. This plan was countermanded by the President's wishes. He asked Kennedy to say nothing at this time publicly other than to announce his radio speech.

TO DENY F. D. TAMPERING

The Ambassador, whose relations with the White House have been frequently reported as strained during the six-month interval since he was last in the United States, will, it is reported, say that the President has at no time tampered with European military and political affairs other than in the pursuance of national interest.

He will then make an appeal to the voters to re-elect Roosevelt for another four years and testify that Roosevelt foreign policies are the only antidote to the threat of aggression from the Axis powers.

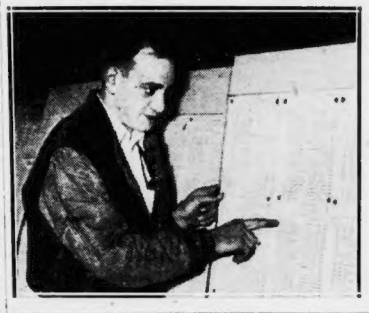
Revelation of Kennedy's third term endorsement is no surprise to the inner circle of Willkie-Republican campaign managers, who are reconciled to the fact that Kennedy was called home less as a matter of diplocay than as an ace-in-the-hole political maneuver by worried Roosevelt forces.

His return, according to Washington authority, was timed to still the growing impression that the President has effected secret agreement with Britain which has committed the United States to war.

WILL GO AFTER IRISH VOTE

Equally well timed, say these same sources, is the Kennedy speech as a preamble to the President's Boston visit Wednesday when he will attempt to wrest from Willkie some of his growing strength in Massachusetts. Kennedy, Boston born and of Irian decent and Catholic pursuasion, is expected to sway the large Irish Catholic block in this area, which has reputedly been prejudiced away from the administration by former National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley's withdrawal from party affairs.

It is stated here that if there was any disagreement on international policies between the President and his Ambassador, they have been reconciled in the meeting last night. Although it is not decided yet whether Kennedy will return to his post at the Court of St. James, or whether he will remain here to accept another post in event that the New Deal is successful in Tuesday's elections.



Calling at the Municipal Building, Roxbury, Louis Palino scans the list of numbers posted for draft registrants . . . and finds his name, gets his number.

Ambassador on Air Tomorrow Night

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, whose return from Great Britain aroused widespread speculation as to its purpose, announced today he would speak to the nation in a broadcast over CBS tomorrow night.

Kennedy, who conferred with President Roosevelt last night in Washington immediately after his return by Clipper plane and then declined to discuss the conference, said he would make no other statement today.

SPEAKS AT 9 P. M.

His broadcasts will be at 9 p. m. Kennedy did not announce the subject of his address.

The Associated Pres determined that the Democratic national committee had reserved time on the CBS network Tuesday from 9 to 10 and that the committee was releasing a half hour to Kennedy.

CBS officials said that reservation for the broadcast had been made by the ambassador, but added they were unaware as to who would pay the bill. They said, however, that it would not be paid by the Democratic national committee.

State Draft Boards Set For Lottery

All local boards in Massachusetts have reported and names and serial numbers of 467,064 draft registrants have been posted, thus far, state selective service officials announced this afternoon.

The balance of the estimated half-million registrants, whose serial numbers have not yet appeared on local board bulletins, will be able to learn their numbers by tomorrow morning, they added.

Bearing down hard on the tremendous task of completing all "paper-work" before the hour of the national lottery at noon tomorrow in Washington, state headquarters sounded the cheeriest note yet.

"No question about it—Massachusetts will be 100 per cent ready!" was the message.

EAST BOSTON LARGEST

District 12, East Boston, has, so far, the largest number of persons registered with a 5792 total. Nantucket, with 301, is lowest.

Both of these totals may be increased by tomorrow or the next day, since there are still an estimated 50,000 registration cards in the mail between Massachusetts and other states.

These are cards of persons who live in other states and who registered here because they were here on business or vacation, and cards of Massachusetts men who registered in other states because they were in those states on registration day.

Many, in spite of all the warnings broadcast, have still failed to register, selective service officials declared today.

They still have until noon tomorrow, hour when the national drawing starts, before being classed as delinquents.

LAST WARNING

Those who appear for registration after that hour will have to defend their late appearance to the satisfaction of draft officials.

Maj. David B. Weden of state headquarters pointed out that no man in the 21-35 draft age classes can possibly hope to gain anything by failing to register before deadline.

No matter how late a man registers, even after the drawing, he will be assigned a serial number. It will be that which follows numerically the last number his board had listed.

It might well be the fortunes of the national lottery that this late number would be one of the first to have been drawn.

Expected announcement of Massachusetts' quota in the first call for service Nov. 18 has been deferred for another week, word came from Washington today.

Massachusetts has so many men enlisting in the Army and Navy and there are still so many National Guard units to be called out that the quota has not yet been checked, it was explained.

Watch American For Draft Draw

Most of Massachusetts' draft registrants know their serial numbers from lists published on bulletin boards by their local draft officials. If your board has not listed names and numbers yet, it will do so shortly.

Like every other draft board in the country, this state's 173 boards MUST have their lists posted BEFORE the national draft drawing at Washington, Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Learn YOUR SERIAL NUMBER from your local board. When the historic drawing takes place, the RECORD-AMERICAN will publish, edition after edition, the master numbers that are drawn.

The sequence or order in which YOUR SERIAL NUMBER is drawn will determine the ORDER in which YOU will be summoned for examination as a potential DRAFTEE.

LEARN WHAT YOUR SERIAL NUMBER IS.

MARK IT ON THE DRAFT REGISTRATION CERTIFICATE WHICH YOU CARRY.

Then, WATCH the editions of the RECORD-AMERICAN, beginning Tuesday, Oct. 29, for YOUR place on the master draft rolls.

N. Y. IS KEY TO ELECTION TREND

EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1940

Crossley Sees Race Nip and Tuck Affair

By ARCHIBALD M. CROSSLEY

Copyright 1940, Crossley Incorporated, International Research Organization

In five key states, totaling 155 electoral votes, the situation is practically a tie. This was indicated in polls taken last Tuesday.

Neither side seems likely to win a very substantial majority of total voters. But such total, or popular, vote does not decide elections. It is actually possible for a candidate to lose over 60 per cent of the total vote and still be elected by a majority of electoral votes, due to the small turnout of potential voters in some states.

Looked at another way, it is possible for a candidate to win a tremendous majority of electorial votes and only a narrow popular margin. Even in 1936 when Rosevelt won 523 votes to 8 for Landon, he obtained only a little more than three-fifths the popular vote.

The present incumbent starts with the solid south safely in his column. Tests indicate no need for detailed polling of Mississippi, Louisiana, or any of fourteen other southern and border states. At least 165 of the necessary 266 electoral votes seem sure for Roosevelt.

In addition, six western states seem definitely to contribute another 25 electoral votes, making his fairly certain minimum 190 electoral votes, with 76 more to go. Willkie's sure states apparently total 32 electoral votes. Therefore a very small margin in key states might conceivably run up a top possibility of 499 electoral votes for Roosevelt, or a top of 341 for Willkie.

If Willkie loses more than 75 from his possible top, he loses the election. New York and Pennsylvania accounts for 83 votes. New York and Illinois for 76, New York and California for 69. Loss of the 47 electoral votes of New York practically makes it necessary for Willkie to sweep all other eastern and middle western states and get some help from the west.

So the spotlight is on New York first, then on other states in the populous group, then on California and some of the Mountain states with small but possibly vital numbers of electoral votes.

CLASSES SEPARATED

To set up its forecast the CROSSLEY POLL has first utilized the principle that people vote largely as they believe living and working conditions will be affected by the result. The first main grouping, therefore, separates farmers from factory workers, white collar, and so on.

A second grouping covers racial differences, and a third covers political machine activity. For preliminary report, therefore, certain principal states were selected.

Diversified industry is represented by Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, and in each of these states there is a wide spread of population over different sizes of cities, towns and villages.

Farms are represented by Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and New York and also by Iowa. Machines are particularly active in New York City and Chicago.

CITIES ADDED

These principal industrial states cover many races and provide opportunity to study Negroes, as well as the Italian vote, the German vote, the Jewish vote, and so on. Both CIO and AFL are represented. For special study, the cities of Milwaukee, Detroit, St. Louis and Kansas City were added.

Iowa was chosen for its type of farming and the fact that it is the home state of the New Deal vice-presidential candidate. Its vote in favor of Willkie would appear at this point to substantiate other facts to indicate that Willkie may count upon all the so-called mid-western farm states and the farm vote in the other eastern and central states.

Preliminary figures for New York City give Roosevelt 60 per cent—perhaps on the low side at this point, but complete enough to indicate that Roosevelt's plurality in this city will be sharply cut from 1936.

CITY, STATE RACE

If the election of the next president hangs upon the decision in New York State, it becomes a race between the city and upstate. Dewey lost the governorship by late switch of only a few thousand votes and by inability to get more upstate voters to the ballot boxes.

The sharp rise in city registrations compared with upstate may similarly favor Roosevelt. Thus the national result may rest with the degree of interest in voting.

Special analyses of racial trends, new voters, sex differences, income level variations, etc., will be presented in later articles of this series. The complete lineup a week from today will cover the fourteen pivotal states, plus any others that seem early in the coming week to need individual analysis.

In addition to the cowboy's appearance, H. Freeman Barnes, advertising director of General Electric's lamp division, will speak on "Lighting With Fluorescent Lamps." A demonstration of the latest improvement in fluorescent lighting will be held.

Community Fund Drive Dates Set

Henry R. Guild, general chairman, announced today that the 1941 campaign of the Greater Boston Community Fund will run from Jan. 18 through Feb. 5.

On Jan. 3 the opening luncheon of the intensive pre-campaign work of the Community Fund's educational division, headed by Mrs. B Harrison Ragle, will take place, to be followed by the preliminary gifts dinner on Jan. 6.

The opening meeting in the actual campaign will be held in Mechanics Building.

Democrats Pin Hope on F. D. Visit

With Democrats confident that the President's visit will bring Bay State victory, the political campaign in Massachusetts today struck a staggering final-week pace, with no "breathers" scheduled until election day, Nov. 5.

Without question, highlight of the week is to be President Roosevelt's one-day dash into Massachusetts in an attempt to realign Democrats and Independents who were impressed by the triumphant visit of Wendell Willkie.

ARRANGE VISIT

Harry Barker, head of the secret service, conferred here today with Federal agents and state and local police over arrangements for the President's visit.

While details of the President's route were not completed, it was known he would arrive first at Springfield at about noon, Wednesday.

At both Springfield and later in Worcester, the chief executive was scheduled to make brief addresses —probably from the rear platform of his special train.

Gates at Boston Garden will open at 7 p. m. Wednesday night, with the first 22,000 to arrive the ones who will be given seats or standing room inside. An amplifying system will carry the President's message to thousands packed outside.

Meanwhile, Col. William J. Keville, chairman of directors of Chelsea Soldiers Home, came to the support of Gov. Saltonstall by accusing the campaign manager of Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever of attempting to swing veterans' votes by a misrepresentation.

SENT OUT CIRCULAR

He declared Daniel J. Doherty, past National Commander of the American Legion, had sent out a circular containing a picture of the soldiers home with a sign on it reading: "Closed—per recommendation," and bearing what purported to be a fac-simile signature of "Leverett Saltonstall, Governor."

JERSEY, NEW YORK GREET ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—An hour behind his schedule on a whirlwind campaign tour of New York city's five boroughs, President Roosevelt sped through streets lined with cheering thousands today.

The visit to the city was threatened with an abrupt termination because Italy and Greece had gone to war during the night.

For hours, crowds lined the curbs awaiting the President's first appearance in lower Manhattan, after passing through Staten Island and making a brief stop in Brooklyn, where he broke ground for the $30,000,000 Battery-Brooklyn vehicular tunnel.

When Mayor F. H. LaGuardia invited him to return four years hence for the opening of the tunnel, Mr. Roosevelt replied

"I can't say I will accept the mayor's invitation for four years from now, but I can say I hope to next week."

HUGE POLICE GUARD

Hundreds of police were on duty in the streets, along the sidewalks and atop roofs of buildings overlooking the President's route through the city.

Shortly after 12:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) the President's party swung over Manhattan bridge for a short halt at Roosevelt Park in lower Manhattan, where it was estimated by police that some 25,000 persons waited under the watchful eyes of 500 policemen.

Children from nearby schools—more than 6000 of them—and their teachers were given a holiday to see and hear the Chief Executive, before he moved uptown to Hunter College.

Earlier, Mr. Roosevelt had swung through Newark, Kearny, Jersey City and Bayonne, N. J., where enormous crowds slowed his progress.

PATROLS CLEAR WAY

Special patrols of police cleared the streets far ahead of the speeding party, whose progress was radioed from police car to police car.

On his arrival at Newark, N. J., people by thousands created the worst jam around the station yet encountered by Mr. Roosevelt. They clambered over official cars, denting in top, and climbed over fenders and radiators. Police were helpless as children and men and women literally fought for a glimpse of the chief executive.

Public safety department officials estimated the crowd which jammed the big plaza outside the station and nearby streets numbered at least 150,000.

As enthusiastic as it was large, it overwhelmed 500 policemen in a wild scramble. Police were knocked sprawling; even mounted officers' horses were showed around.

Politicians from New Jersey met him at Newark and rode with him as far as Staten Island. There at the end of Bayonne Bridge the President picked up Governor Herbert, H. Lehman of New York Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, Senators Robert F. Wagner and James M. Mead and Wm. T. Featherstone, Richmond County Democratic chairman.

SIRENS SHRIEK

Sirens and whistles from trains and industrial plants and boats shrilled a welcome as the President and his party drove across Bayonne bridge.

Thousands crowded the streets on Staten Island as the President rode along.

On the ride on the municipal ferry from Staten Island to Brooklyn, the President saw naval tugs and swift "mosquito boats" darting across the choppy waters of New York harbor and seaplanes overhead.

In Brooklyn, he motored to the spot set aside for the breaking of ground for a new Brooklyn-Battery vehicular tunnel.

SEPARATE SUPPORT — In a bench conference today at Middlesex court, Mrs. Effie Cappiello of Medford is granted separate support and custody of two children.

Judge Reynolds Inducted in Norfolk

In a colorful courtroom scene, Judge James F. Reynolds of Quincy was inducted today as the new judge of the Norfolk Probate Court, succeeding the late Judge Joseph R. McCoole.

Lieut.-Gov. Horace T. Cahill, Superior Court Justice Thomas H. Dowd and Acting Judge of Probate George M. Poland sat beside Judge Reynolds as the order of the appointment was read by Anne E. Hirsch, acting registrar of probate.

F. D. Must Win, Cudahy Argues

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—John Cudahy, U. S. ambassador to Belgium, asserted today that war had become so terrible and dictators so strong that the "issue of war on peace transcends the third term."

This circumstance, he said in a prepared address at Columbia University, made it necessary to reelect President Roosevelt.

"Jefferson wrote emphatically that while he believed in rotation of elective office, he could foresee an emergency where it might be necessary to continue the same individual in office," the envoy declared. "There is such an emergency now."

2 Girls Arrested For Hurling Onion At Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP) Two sisters, accused of throwing an onion from the top of a building at President Roosevelt as his automobile sped through Brooklyn, were arrested today.

Police said the girls would be booked on disorderly conduct charges. They gave their names as Italia D'Arbe, 21, a houseworker, and Mary D'Arbe, 17, an unemployed typist.

A mounted policeman arrested the girls soon after the incident. The onion fell several feet from the President's moving automobile.

HULL PROVED F. D. FAILURE---WILLKIE

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE, Oct. 28 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie asserted today that Secretary of State Hull's speech Saturday night was "an extraordinary documentation of New Deal futility."

"The secretary pointed out more clearly than could any contemporary critic of the New Deal the serious failure to organize a national economy capable of building rapidly an adequate defense," said Willkie in a statement issued on his campaign train.

"The only solution to this crisis in our national leadership," the Republican presidential nominee said, "is to defeat the third term candidate."

Commenting on the Secretary of State's speech in Washington Saturday night, Willkie said Hull has made it more than ever obvious that such a defense was essential to the maintenance of our influence in foreign affairs."

BLAMES ROOSEVELT

"The secretary's statement that as early as June, 1935, speaking for the government, I pointed out that we would not serve the cause of peace by not having adequate powers of self-defense,' makes the whole tragedy of world conditions and our present precarious position in relation to them even more apparent.

"Had the President not then also been a candidate for reelection, he might have done better than merely send up verbal trial balloons to see how the popular emotion ran toward foreign events.

CHARGES FAILURE

"Even without raising international questions, or making domestic issues out of questions of foreign policy, the President, who is now a candidate for the third term, could have adjusted our internal economy to the recovery level essential to support a program of adequate national defense, and could have done it without disturbing his purely political interests.

"The President having failed, however, Secretary Hull's picture of world crises since 1933 makes even more distinctly tragic the now famous sham of last May's 'on hand' and 'on order' speech.

At Champaign, Willkie said his throat was a little husky "in a good cause."

Asserting that President Roosevelt had wanted Congress to adjourn last June, he declared that if this had been done "we would not even have a start on the defense program at this time."

He took issue with the President on economic conditions, and said:

"I don't think the farmers will agree that they are better off than they were in 1929."

Farm income has declined in the last 10 years, he continued, and urged farmers to keep up "their fight for a larger share of the national income."

"If I am elected, I will not take away any of the advancements made by agriculture in the last few years."

Garage Man Held In Boy Hit-Run Case

Kenneth W. Fay, 30, of Forest st., Watertown, floorman at a Back Bay garage, was surrendered today in Newton court as the alleged hit-and-run driver who inflicted serious injuries on Joseph Coffey, 9, near his home in Pearl st., Newton.

The garage man was surrendered by his lawyer, Samuel H. Miller of Boston, who had telephoned Newton police yesterday even while they were searching for a 1936 automobile from which a headlight and part of a bumper had been ripped in the crash.

Arraigned before Judge Donald E. Mayberry in a crowded courtroom, Fay pleaded innocent to charges of dangerous driving and leaving the scene of an accident after causing personal injury. He was granted a week's continuance and held in $500 on the dangerous driving charge and $1000 on the hit-and-run charge.

A record was produced in court purporting to show that Fay had been convicted of drunken driving and drunkenness in October, 1934, and had been fined $100 on the driving charge and $15 on the other charge, with the fines later being revoked and the case placed on file.

Young Coffey was mowed down by a speeding driver last Saturday night while on the way to a store with chums.

The force of the impact threw him into the air and landed him on one fender of the car. Then the driver, the boy's chums said, zigzagged wildly down the street, shook off the boy, ran over him and sped away.

The Coffey boy is at Newton Hospital with a broken leg and a possible fracture of the skull. Doctors said he will live.

Another Hit-Run Suspect Surrenders

Telling police, they said, that his conscience bothered him, Russell A. Proctor, 35, of Alther st., Roxbury, gave himself up today at West Roxbury station, ending a search for a hit-and-run truck driver under way since Oct. 18.

Sergt. George Weckbacker said Proctor admitted he was the driver of a truck which struck a trolley car that afternoon at Center and Landseer sts., West Roxbury, causing injury to six trolley passengers and two out of six WPA workers riding on the truck.

POPE SETS NOV. 24 DAY OF PRAYER

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 28 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today proclaimed Nov. 24 a day of "holy masses and public prayer to be offered throughout the world for the present needs of human society."

He included particularly peace.

The Pontiff declared he had done everything in his power to promote peace, "but since this cruel struggle started, instead of abating, it continues to gather violence."

"Our voice pleading for peace is drowned out in the clash of arms," he said. "We turn our minds in trepidation, but yet in confidence, to 'the Father of mercies and the God of all comfort' and implore, for the human race, times more peaceful from Him who bends the wills of men and who, by His divine direction, orders the course of events."

Kennedy Due To Back F. D.

usually has this time on the CBS network.—Editor's Note.

Thus a situation almost identical with that of the John L. Lewis broadcast of last Friday night seemed to be in the making.

Not until Lewis actually was ready to speak did the Democrats-for-Willkie announce that the estimated $45,000 cost was being paid by their organization.

Return of the 52-year-old diplomat to his homeland just before the general election, and the fact that the State Department and Kennedy had little to say regarding the purpose of his visit, provoked reports that he was not entirely in sympathy with the Administration's foreign policy.

Sec. Hull announced last week that Kennedy was returning for consultations and that as far as he knew, the ambassador would return to his post.

MAINTAINS SILENCE

Neither here, in London, nor en route did the envoy make any public statement explaining his visit.

Asked on his arrival here yesterday how he felt about a third term for President Roosevelt, the ambassador responded:

"You know what I said a year ago."

He referred apparently to a statement made in Washington Dec. 8, 1939, when he said:

"The problems that are going to affect the people of the United States, political, social and economic, are already so great and becoming greater by war that they should be handled by a man it won't take two years to educate."

A week later Kennedy said:

"I want to say I think the President is handling the present international situation with a skill that everyone admires."

Wife, 21, Dying In Gun Blast

MILFORD, Oct. 28—Accidentally shot while she was dancing at her home, an attractive young wife today was given little hope by physicians in her fight for life, and slimmer hope for saving her leg.

The victim, Mrs. Ruth Boggins, 21, underwent a transfusion with blood given by her brother, Raymond Rogerson, but she failed to rally, surgeons declared.

Her brother-in-law, Henry Boggins, 18, told Chief of Police Leo Cassidy that he had just returned from a hunting trip, and believing he had unloaded his shot-gun, was about to place it on a table when it was accidentally discharged.

The blast lodged in Mrs. Boggins' leg while she was dancing in the kitchen with a girl chum. The other girl, Elaine Ravel, 15 was slightly wounded.

Parkyakakas In Court on Son's Support

Dialect comedians are virtually unwanted on the radio because of the war, Harry Einstein, alias "Nick Parkyakakas" of air wave fame, told Judge Frederic J. Dillon in Suffolk probate court today as he sought reduction of a court order compelling him to pay $50 a week for support of his 12-year-old son.

"People with dialects have a tough time to get a place on the air," he said, claiming that his earnings had slid from a high of $75,000 a year to a low of $2744 for 1940.

Einstein, appearing at the court house in a blue suit and a pullover sweater, went unrecognized by his public.

Asked by Thomas Hilly, his counsel:

"Have you found it difficult to get employment?" he replied, "Difficult would be putting it mildly."

He declared that he is now living on his savings and that his mother, who is dependent on him, is seriously ill.

After hearing the testimony Judge Dillon took the matter under advisement.

Because it makes a hit with guests
MORE HOSTESSES EVERY DAY ARE SERVING WINE WITH DINNER

TIPS ON SERVING WINE
TABLE WINES go best with meals. They are made "dry" (not sweet) to complement food. Try tart, red Burgundy or Claret; delicate, golden Sauterne or Chablis (well chilled) . . . in servings half water glass size.
SWEET WINES go best with refreshments and desserts. They are made rich with the natural sweetness of the grape. Try red Port or golden Muscatel, in a small glass.
AN APPETIZER WINE like Sherry is best before dinner. Sherry is amber, nutlike in flavor. It is usually served in a cocktail-size glass.

SERVING THE BEVERAGE with the meal is one of those happy ideas almost everybody seems to welcome. Do you know why?

The golden gleam of Sauterne or the ruby radiance of Burgundy brings glamour to your table. And with any dinner or luncheon, wine adds amazingly to your enjoyment of food.

No need for fuss or frills. Just set an extra glass at each place and bring on your bottle of wine with the main course. Why don't you try it next time you have guests for dinner?

away, and the port, about four miles from the city, were raided, however. The Greeks said one hangar was damaged slightly. Port facilities and buildings also were damaged by 15 planes at Patras, the port, with four killed and 17 injured.

PARADES IN STREETS

While Athens' anti-aircraft guns barked spasmodically, the people of the capital marched either to the front or in enthusiastic parades in the streets.

Immediately after the announcement that the nation was at war, crowds sacked and destroyed the offices of the Italian air and steamship lines and ripped down Italian flags. They marched, also, past the Italian legation, but did not harm it.

Police rounded up all Italians and Germans in the country and put them in jail. Martial law was enforced.

All the street demonstrators carried both Greek and Turkish flags, for the Greeks confidently believe the Turks will help them. A few British flags were seen.

There was little news from the front, beyond the statement that Greek troops were fighting all along the Albanian frontier. The government said two Italian bombers had been shot down "somewhere in Greece."

STEADY STREAMS OF TROOPS

From early morning, a constant stream of trucks, loaded with newly-mobilized troops, wound down the avenues and careened around corners, heading north.

The men called up under general mobilization orders are all between the ages of 20 and 43. Youths under twenty and men over the limit were wearing arm bands of the air defense corps. They will black out Athens tonight.

It was learned that Metaxas had talked with President Inonu of Turkey for 15 minutes, but the result of their conversation remained a secret. The premier also telephoned Yugoslavian government leaders and talked to them even longer.

King George II called on his nation to "fight for its hearths to final victory" and declared "We have been compelled to go to war against an Italy coveting Greece's independence."

The king's message came only a few minutes after Metaxis flatly rejected the demands of a three-hour Italian ultimatum expiring at 6 a. m.

Reports from anxiously watching Yugoslavia said that 10 divisions of perhaps 200,000 Italian troops were reported driving into Greece today all along the Albanian frontier in an attack timed with Italian naval blows at the Greek island of Corfu.

The king and Metaxas were cheered by crowds as they drove through the streets. Later the premier conferred with ministers from Britain, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

A Greek communique said "Italian forces have been attacking since 5:30 this morning our advanced posts along the Greek-Albanian border. Our forces are defending their national soil."

PACT VIOLATED

Meanwhile, Yugoslav quarters said the Italian attack on Greece violated the Yugoslav-Italian pact of 1937 because Yugoslavia was not informed in advance of the move.

Official statements, however, said Yugoslavia would remain neutral in the conflict and offered Yugoslav services as mediator to keep the war from spreading to the rest of the Balkans.

Reports said the Italian ultimatum which Greece rejected and which led to the attack included demands for the abdication of King George II of Greece, various military concessions, and free passage for Italian troops and material through Greece.

ARMY OF 100,000

The Greek army is estimated as upward of 100,000 because class after class has been called to the colors in the past several months as Axis threats have increased and war clouds have darkened over the Balkans.

The Italian ultimatum was delivered little more than 24 hours after a new series of "incidents" along the Albanian frontier was charged by Italy—an outbreak of shooting which Italians blamed on Greeks said to have penetrated Albanian territory Friday night and Saturday morning.

Greeks' Acts Forced War, Italians Say

ROME, Oct. 28 (AP)—Italy, charging Greece with aiding Great Britain, took action against her today after serving an ultimatum demanding permission for Fascist forces to occupy "several strategic points in Greek territory" for the duration of the war.

Italian authorities said the measures taken against Greece would be announced later today. They declared the action was necessary to meet the situation caused by alleged Greek provocation on the Albanian frontier and a "grave British threat to Greek independence."

New Raids Spread Over England, Wales

LONDON, Oct. 28 (AP)—German planes were reported over the west of England, the industrial Midlands, the east coast and south Wales in daylight raids today after a series of widespread raids during the night.

Three German planes were shot down today and three others last night the Air Ministry reported. Its communique said later information also showed that only eight British fighter planes were lost yesterday, but the pilots of four of them were saved.

Lunchtime throngs in London were given a brief air raid alert, second of the day. A third alarm was sounded in mid afternoon.

This alarm was short lived, but within an hour after the "all clear" had sounded a fourth alarm sent Londoners into their shelters again.

Bombers stabbed at London in the first gray light of dawn today only a short time after the all-clear ended the 51st consecutive all night raid on Britains capital but the first daylight alarm lasted only a short while.

The overnight air attacks on London were "much less" severe than on the previous night, the government said, adding that "the main attacks, which were made in the earlier hours of darkness, were on Northwest England and the midlands."

Royal Air Force warplanes, meanwhile, attacked communications in Western Germany during the night, the Air Ministry reported, as well as oil targets in Central and Northern Germany and two "invasion ports."

(Officials in Berlin said British planes attempting to reach the German capital were turned before they reached the outer defense belt and the raid alarm in the city was described as brief. These sources said no bombs fell in Berlin.—Editor's Note.)

LULLS BETWEEN ATTACKS

The Merseyside section of Liverpool docks and shipping) and a Midlands town were reported to have been hardest hit in the night raiding on England. Casualties, however, were said to have been "not numerous."

In London there were long lulls between the attacks when. British reported, anti-aircraft guns and night fighter planes held back the raiders. After midnight the battle-tried city lay in comparative quiet.

Before midnight, however, heavy bombs—both incendiary and high explosive—were falling in sticks of five and six as the city's millions remained underground. London had six raid alarms yesterday during the day.

The air ministry last night painted a picture of widespread destruction in Berlin as a result of RAF raids on the German capital since early September, reporting that numerous vital objectives had been hit.

Fear 140 Lost on Canada Destroyer

OTTAWA, Oct. 28 (AP)—One hundred and forty members of the crew of 181 of the Canadian destroyer Margaree were believed lost, naval service headquarters announced today, when the warship collided with a merchant vessel and sank in the darkness Oct 22 in the north Atlantic.

Hub Consul Cites History of Greece

Characterizing the Italian invasion of Greece as a "ruthless attack," Alexis S. Liatis, Greek consul at Boston, today declared that his nation would fight to the end.

"The Greeks are a small nation, but they know how to fight when their national liberty is at stake," he said. "We have proved that repeatedly in our 40 long centuries of history, and we are going to prove it again now."

TURK'S STAND SEEN TO HINGE ON BRITAIN

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 28 AP)—Premier Refik Saydam broadcast today that "we are stronger than ever," but made no mention of Italy's invasion of Greece.

It was generally assumed that Turkey's attitude would depend largely on how much aid Britain can give Greece, as well as on the degree of Greece's own resistance.

Diplomatic circles in Belgrade heard unconfirmed reports that Turkey had declared war on Italy, but the Turkish legation said it had no knowledge of such action. It said, however, it had received word the Turkish cabinet had been summoned for an emergency meeting. — Editor's Note.

Turkey, allied closely to Greece but not bound to go to her aid unless a secret military clause exists between them, received the news of the Italian attack calmly.

Britain Admits Empress Sunk

LONDON, Oct. 28 (AP)—Loss of the Empress of Britain, 42,348-ton pride of the Canadian merchant fleet, with a probable death list of 45 persons was acknowledged today by the British admiralty and war office.

Of the 643 persons on board, mostly military families and "a small number of military personnel," 598 already have been landed by warships in British ports, a joint communique reported.

German reports said the great liner was smashed by air attack Saturday and finished off by two torpedoes from a submarine early today. They described the Empress, which took King George VI and Queen Elizabeth across the Atlantic when they returned from their pilgrimage to Canada and the United States, as a "transport."

Only Petain May Disclose F. D.'s Private Message

VICHY, France, Oct. 28 (AP)—A foreign ministry spokesman said today Marshal Petain, France's chief of state, had received from President Roosevelt a "personal message" which could be disclosed only by Petain "because of the privacy of its character."

Diplomatic sources here believed Roosevelt's note concerned the current negotiations between Petain and Adolf Hitler.

Vice Premier Pierre Laval was named foreign minister today to succeed Paul Baudouin, who became Secretary of State attached to the presidency of the council.

The French Cabinet held an emergency session and Laval headed for Paris to continue negotiations with France's new Axis partners.

Earlier, the vice-premier announced he would explain to the nation by radio some time today the French-German conversations which resulted in the Vichy government's agreement to a policy of collaboration with the Axis "for peace in Europe."

Frenchmen today were forbidden to listen to British radio broadcasts in public places under penalty of confiscation of the radio.

Six Nazi Oil Plants Blasted by British

5th 'Life With Father' Week

ROOSEVELT NAILS A LIE

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

President Roosevelt's exposure of the malicious "war scare" deliberately manufactured by Wendell Willkie was a classic of political campaigning.

In words that burned into the souls of millions of radio listeners, the Chief Executive completely demolished this reckless invention by a presidential candidate who tried to create fear and panic to advance his political fortunes.

You recall candidate Willkie's hint that the Administration had made a secret pact to take this country into war. President Roosevelt answered that shabby charge with the scorn and derision that it deserved. He answered it fully, completely and finally. Here are his words:

"I give to you and to the people of this country this most solemn assurance: there is no secret treaty, no secret obligation, no secret commitment, no secret understanding in any shape or form, direct or indirect, with any other government, or any other nation in any part of the world, to involve — no such secrecy that might or could in any shape, involve — this nation in any war or for any other purpose. Is that clear?

Trouble With the Steering Wheel.

It WAS clear. So clear that it should have reddened the ears of the man who made the charge. So clear that millions of Americans who believe in clean, honest campaigning felt a sense of shame that a man aspiring to seek the Presidency should stoop to such methods of campaigning.

EXPOSING FALSIFICATION

In words equally clear and equally forceful, the President destroyed the charges that he had sold Czecho-Slovakia down the river, that he was planning concentration camps for labor, that social security funds will be lost in the total collapse of the American government.

"I make the charge now," he said, "that these falsifications are being spread for the purpose of filling the minds and hearts of the American people with fear. They are used to create fear by instilling in the minds of our people doubt of each other, doubt of their government, and doubt of the purposes of democracy."

Perhaps even finer than his exposure of the charges preferred by Willkie, was the manner in which the President addressed his fellow Americans. He did NOT talk down to "you guys." He did NOT fill his talk with "damns" and "Hells" to show that he was a regular fellow. He did NOT refer to his opponent as "that fellow." He spoke with the calm assurance and measured dignity of a man fitted to head a great nation of 130,000,000 people.

When he referred to the excellent state of business and industry, President Roosevelt exposed for what it was worth Mr. Willkie's false charge that this Administration has failed to provide "one man" a job in private industry. He told of the millions who have gone back to work, the increase in production above the level of 1929, and then he added:

"And if you properly consider the lower cost of living today than in 1929, the national income is even higher now than in that great boom year."

ECHO OF THE PAST

The great debater, Mr. Willkie, probably learned something about the art of real debating by listening in to the President's address.

It was unfortunate for the Republican nominee that the newspaper editions carrying the reports of his speech, warning that social security would collapse, also carried a brief dispatch from Chicago. This dispatch said:

"Creditors of the late Samuel Insull, who once controlled a $1,000,000,000 organization, will receive from his estate about .001 of a cent on the dollar on their claims totaling $4,114,000 according to a final accounting of the estate filed today with, and approved by, the probate court."

A fraction of a penny for those who believed in the great utilities magnate, Sam Insull! An echo of the boom days when stocks were juggled and watered, when investors poured their hard-earned money in utility securities.

President Roosevelt rescued the country from those practices. His re-election will be a continued guaranty of security.

A Workingman Speaks!

(Provided by the Republican National Committee)

(Editor's note: The following letter from a gentleman giving his name as Wayne Noble, 16 Fulton Street, Newark, N. J., was received in our mail bag.)

"I confess to being somewhat peeved over some of my fellow-workingmen saying that Roosevelt is for them.

"First, what do you know for sure that would keep Mr. Willkie from being a good president for all the people? Remember that no man's name sounds like a president at first. But all we need to feel confident about is that that job is considered one for a human being, chosen from among millions, and not expected to be a demigod.

"The charge is made that Mr. Willkie will be for Capital. Well I hope he will, so long as we have a capitalistic system. I have been a union construction man for thirty-six years, and it has been Capital which has given me my living. When I didn't work it was when Capital didn't work either. Every time. So if Willkie is for Capital, then that just suits me to a T.

"As for the union end of it. I have often felt proud of the fact that every president until this one has been neutral, regarding himself as the president of all the people, with special favors to none. Under that policy, the A. F. of L. has grown in fifty years to become a great and respected force for good. Many were against us, but because we had the backbone to fight, we kept coming right along. You know and I know that we have always had the right to organize.

He's a Real Union Man

"Nowadays the boys expect to be wet-nursed by the government. But it's fighting that makes men, and makes a good, loyal body of unionists. All I personally would ask of Mr. Willkie as president is that he remain neutral, so long as he doesn't catch us doing something he wouldn't do himself. I am not afraid of capitalist opposition in building up honest unions. In fact, it is healthy, for the consequent dickering is the American way and puts us on an equal footing. The truth is, if we haven't the guts to do our own fighting, then Hitler will soon be telling us we are decadent and not fit to rule. And it would be the truth.

"So let's mark off that claim about the "gains" labor has made, and that Roosevelt is indispensable to labor. The fact is, we have lost, because there isn't the spirit of unionism there used to be. We can walk from one store to another and not find the union label in suits, hats, shirts, cigars, tools, and in many articles which used to carry the label. And that is because you fellows don't demand it. Then if you haven't the union principle which makes you demand the label, when you hire labor, what right have you to expect a law which forces capital to demand the label when hiring you?

"Now, I'll tell you why union labor is losing out. For eleven years now the ability to pick up a job has become less. In consequence, the competition for jobs has made people think only of themselves. They have forgotten principle and have cut their own wages to keep a job; and have taken jobs from others by the same manner. Certainly there is no gain to labor in that way of doing.

"Then the WPA came along with its starvation wage, and millions who had formerly received four times its wage, came to regard it as rather desirable. Thus if a chance came to get a job only a little better, WPA-lats grabbed it.

"Later came the 132 hour month; and following that the pauper nation manner of "granting" colored stamps to reliefers, which would enable them to receive a pittance more from the so-called surplus-foods stocks.

Is This A Social Gain?

Do any of you have the nerve to call such an existence for from fifteen to twenty millions of our people any gain to labor? You know it is a loss. And to think that for one hundred and fifty years people hustled for themselves without much trouble, until Roosevelt comes along and says hustling is out of date. What has labor gained?

"Some of you are listening to labor racketeers whose numbers have multiplied so much under Roosevelt's administration. The Labor Act, far from giving labor the right to organize, has instead given racketeers a legal right to force their rackets upon employes of many industries. I say this, that any group of employes which hasn't the ambition, principle and courage to organize themselves without special protection of law, can never receive any material gains from an organization which is forced upon them.

"Every union man of at least fifteen years membership, knows that it is getting to be more a racket all the time. And he knows that that is what is going to destroy the movement if anything does. And yet a lot of you fellows will let these racketeers tell you that you must vote for Roosevelt.

"Everybody knows that as soon as Willkie is elected, people with money will have confidence, and bulding of all sorts, with other investments, will immediately start up. You know that, although you may express a lip belief to those around you. In fact, you are positive of it; so positive that as soon as Willkie is elected, you and your families will at once begin to plan on a better home and better way of living. And that is something you absolutely know you won't do if Roosevelt is elected."

DRAFT BRINGS BACK WAR MEMORIES OF 1917

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Drafted or not drafted?

That was the great question which threw Boston and Massachusetts into feverish excitement a little over 23 years ago. To be exact it was July 20, 1917.

Tomorrow that same question will be repeated after the drawings for Selective Service have been completed in Washington.

Turning back to the Boston Evening American's editions on that historic day the front page bore the headline:

"Many Boston Men in 1st Quota—Doubt For Many is Ended."

Following that was listed the names of all those men who held the red ink number 258, the first number pulled out of the now famous gold fish bowl in the public hearing room of the Senate Building, before the then Secretary of War Baker, army officials and newspapermen.

More than two score of men between the ages 21 and 35, living in Boston and Greater Boston, simultaneously were bestowed the honor of being "number one man," to be called to the colors—from their respective draft areas.

WHERE ARE 1917 DRAFTEES?

In an effort to determine what happened to these drafted men after their numbers were called, what service they saw and what they are now doing, revealed many interesting things.

Of that group, many were killed overseas, others died since being honorably discharged from the service, a few have never been heard from since they left to answer the call, while others were found to be living in various parts of Greater Boston and different sections of the nation.

Most of those located are now happily married and have sons whose numbers might be called tomorrow.

WOULD FIGHT AGAIN

Each and every one of those contacted, reaffirmed their pledge of allegiance to this great nation of ours and offered their lives once again to defend the principles for which it stands.

The No. 1 draftee in Massachusetts, back in '17, was officially proclaimed as Leo Riley, whose present address is Jackson rd., Newton.

Riley at the time of the draft lived with his parents on Bennington st., East Boston, which was designated as Massachusetts' draft district No. 1. By holding the famed No. 258 he became draftee No. 1 in this state. But two days later he, tacted, reaffirmed their pledge of enlisted, but never went overseas.

WORKS FOR GOVERNMENT

Now a little this side of the half century age mark Riley is a government employee working as a clerk in the Newton postoffice.

William B. Nugent of St. Andrews st., East Boston, was another "258" man. Nugent now a visitor for the Soldiers' Relief Commission of the city of Boston, was already in the service when his number was drawn. His duties kept him on this side of the water also during the war.

James P. Ryan of Randolph, formerly of Charlestown, actually became the first man drafted in the service. With both Riley and Nugent in the service the Charlestown man was drafted. He served overseas.

Ryan, a prominent Legionnaire, is the father of a 17 year-old boy whom he says:

". . . is ready to answer the call and would gladly enlist if the army would take him. He is just a chip off the old block."

Another "258" draftee was Mayo Craffey of Jamaicaway, Jamaica Plain, the first man to go from that district.

Masty, past commander of the Boston Newspapermen's Post, served with the 301st, the initial draft outfit to go overseas.

FIRST FROM ARLINGTON

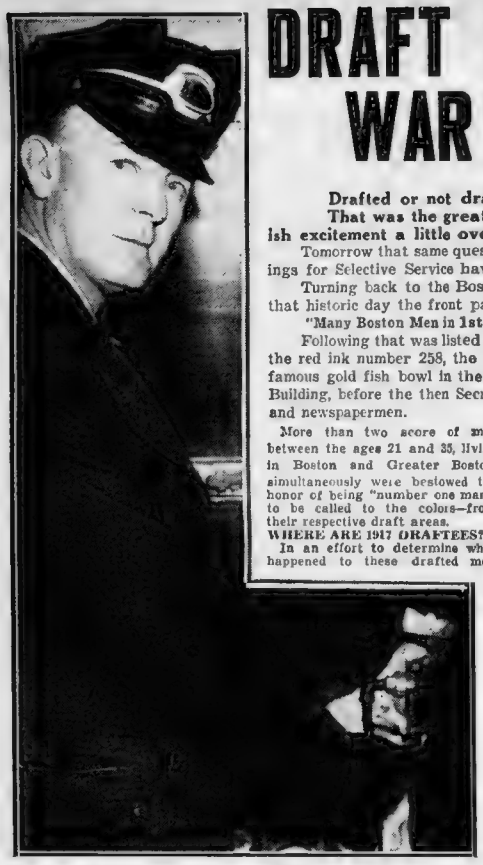
Now in Arlington, Charles Crowley of Webster st., was the first from that area to be drafted.

Crowley, 23 years ago, was in the same predicament as many men will be tomorrow if their number is drawn for the first call.

He was married and the father of three youngsters. He tried hard to get himself accepted by the draft board, but he was placed in Class 4 because of dependents. However, he was never called. Two of his sons are registered this year.

Roxbury's first draftee was Copeland Renouf, who now lives in Oak sq., Brighton. He is employed as a motorman on the Reservoir-Lechmere sq. line.

The day before he was to leave for Camp Devens along with the first batch of Hub men drafted, he took sick and was rushed to a hospital and operated upon and then placed on the deferred list.



No. 1—Now a motorman, Copeland Renouf of Brighton was one of the holders of "258" in 1917 that gave him Order No. 1 with his local board.

Memories—No. 1 in the World War and first of his district to go overseas, Mayo Craffey of Jamaica Plain talks over the present draft with his wife . . . "ready now if they'd take me."

Father and Son—Charles Crowley of Arlington was No. 1 in the World War . . . and his son, William, may be No. 1 in the peacetime draft. Tomorrow's drawing will show whether it runs in the family. In 1917, No. 1 was No. 258 . . . tomorrow . . . ???.

ROME ULTIMATUM ENDS, GREECE AT WAR

Greek Premier Mobilizes Army to Answer Italian Threat as British Speed Aid

On the March—With Italy declaring war on Greece at the expiration of an ultimatum, Greek Premier John Metaxas orders full mobilization . . . calling up a small, but well-drilled and disciplined army to stave off the Italians. Here, Metaxas views some of his fighting men, who today are set to battle the invaders on Greece's northern frontier.

Navy Small—Although Greece has but a small Navy, a new construction program is under way . . . and pledged British naval support answers their sea defense problem. Anti-aircraft defenses are many and modern. Here, Greek sailors engage in gunnery practice in the Aegean sea.

Ready for Italians—Greece, always a believer in preparedness, has been on the watch since the start of war in Europe . . . looking toward invasion. Today, as war hits the ancient country of the Hellenes, it is ready . . . with such warriors as these government troops, which form the backbone of the army.

EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1940

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is delivering a series of political speeches as the campaign closes, accusing his opponents of "deliberate falsification of fact."

It is not necessary to wait for the speeches to compile a convincing list of charges against Mr. Roosevelt which are NOT subject to the charge of "falsification."

Not even Mr. Roosevelt will call it false to say he is seeking a third term as President of the United States, in defiance and violation of a tradition and practice as old as the Republic itself.

1932—MR. ROOSEVELT VOWS HE WILL CUT TAXES
Now, in 1940, They Are Highest in Nation's History

There is no "falsification" in saying that Mr. Roosevelt sought, and luckily failed, to pack the United States Supreme Court with his own appointees with the intention and expectation of assuring his administration of favorable interpretation of law by the court.

There is no "falsification" in reciting the record of his attempted purge from Congress of members who had opposed his wishes and program.

There is no "falsification" in pointing to the fact that his administration has doubled the public debt of the United States, and has maintained an unbroken string of annual deficits.

There is no "falsification" in stating the fact that he traded valuable warships to England without authority from Congress.

There is no "falsification" in the recorded fact that after taking an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, as all American Presidents are required to do, he later wrote a letter to a committee of Congress saying:

"I hope your committee will not permit any doubt as to the constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested (Guffey Coal Bill) legislation."

There is no "falsification of fact" in citing the record to show that he arbitrarily removed Commissioner Humphrey from the Federal Trade Commission, and that the Supreme Court subsequently ruled unanimously that he had no authority to do so. (Regrettably, Mr. Humphrey died before he could get the benefit of the decision.)

FURTHERMORE, there is no "falsification" in the fact that Mr. Roosevelt was elected in 1932 on a promise to reduce taxation, and that taxes imposed by his administration have subsequently been the highest and most ruinous in our history.

There is no "falsification" in the fact that he also promised in the campaign of 1932 to reduce government spending by twenty-five per cent, and that his administration has ever since steadily and enormously increased public spending.

There is no "falsification" in the fact that he assured the country in 1932 that he could reduce unemployment, and was elected largely because of that assurance, and that he has NOT reduced unemployment.

There is no "falsification" in remembering that in a message to Congress in January, 1936, he said that the unusual, extraordinary and unprecedented powers that had been given him in the 34 months up to that time might in other hands—

"PROVIDE SHACKLES FOR THE LIBERTIES OF THE PEOPLE."

There was the TIP OFF, men and women of America, that President Roosevelt would not only seek a THIRD TERM when the time came, but that he would never willingly or voluntarily relinquish his power.

THIS LIST OF FACTS could be extended endlessly. They are not "false in any sense or fragment, but are the undeniable and unconcealable RECORDS OF TWO ROOSEVELT ADMINISTRATIONS.

Many of them are sufficient unto themselves to warrant and justify his defeat.

Do not expect President Roosevelt to refute or even to discuss these facts. He can avoid or ignore them, disparage or belittle their importance, but DENY THEM HE CANNOT DO.

"CHINESE SLAY TWO THOUSAND JAPS," says headline. This again reminds me that a Japanese general said recently: "We have completely defeated the Chinese many times, but they keep on fighting" . . . Magda Maskel of Hollywood has organized a group of girls to pay all checks when out on dates with drafted soldiers. Think of having Ann Sheridan take you to lunch at the Brown Derby and paying the check. If such things keep happening, the soldiers may be singing "Happy Days Are Here Again," instead of "You're in the Army Now." Remember when I was attired in Uncle Sam's uniform, a young woman in San Francisco threw her arms around me, gave me a great big kiss and said: "You brave, wonderful boy." I was quite pleased until a half an hour later when I found she had stolen my watch. Well, maybe I should have stayed away from the Barbary Coast.

SAID COLERIDGE: "The three ends which a statesman ought to propose to himself in the government of a nation are: 1. Security to possessors. 2. Facility to acquirers. 3. Hope to all" . . . "Never trust a man who speaks well of everybody," rightly observed Churton Collins . . . Ovid, an enthusiastic and tireless student of the habits and inclinations of the female of the species, once said: "Women often wish to give unwillingly what they really like to give" . . . George Bernard, the old cynic, snapped: "Every woman who hasn't any money is a matrimonial adventurer." Alfred Sutro, who had some reputation in the experience field, said: "There are 67 different ways in which a woman can like a man. (I heard a woman say last night she liked a man because he was "so delightfully arrogant.") Mr. Sutro did not name the ways of inspiring love in a woman. Any information on this subject will, I am sure, be welcomed by the male clients of this department.

MONTY BANKS, actor and film producer, was born in Italy, began his film career in the U. S. A. and made a fortune in the British cinema industry. Mr. Banks plans, when conditions permit, to settle down on the Isle of Capri with Mrs. Banks, professionally known as Gracie Fields . . . Now say you had a machine that would play 26 records without a change. What 26 records would you put on it as your ideal program? Some I would put on would be Irene Dunne singing "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes"; Helen Morgan warbling "Only a Paper Moon"; Kenny Baker, "Love Walked In"; Maggie Teyte, "Musetta Waltz"; and Mardone's "Song of the Coat," from "Le Boheme," and something by Caruso, what I cannot hastily decide.

COLUMNIST complains he is not getting enough space for his daily masterpiece. A futile complaint. Experience should teach all newspapermen to take what space they are given and adapt themselves to it. Once in the dim past I complained space alloted to me was too little to really say anything worth while in. "Is that so?" said the managing editor. "How about that fellow who engraved the Lord's Prayer on a pin-head?"

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

-:- MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 28—Friday afternoon, at the White House, I received the National Council of Negro Women, who are holding their convention in the District of Columbia. In the evening, Miss Thompson and I went to an annual dinner party which brings together some of our best friends in Washington, and which we look forward to every autumn.

Saturday morning we flew up to New York City. Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick gave a charming lunch at the Cosmopolitan Club for Mrs. Henry Wallace, which we both attended.

From there I went to the rooms of the British War Relief Society, the Robert Burns Circle Division. They are planning their annual ball and entertainment, which takes place at the Hotel Astor on Dec. 28.

AT THIS PARTY they hope to raise much of the money needed for their war relief fund, and so Mr. Newbold Morris was present Saturday to sell me the first ticket for this benefit.

Both Mr. Morris and I were presented with British emblems to wear on our coats, and I felt extremely important because a Scotchman in uniform piped me into the room. I nearly hit my head on the back of his bagpipes, but dodged just in time, and hope I looked sufficiently dignified to warrant so much honor.

Then I went as fast as the traffic would let me to the Biltmore Hotel, where Mrs. William H. Good, head of the New York State Women's Division for the campaign, was holding a large reception in honor of Mrs. Wallace and myself.

The crowd was very great and I was forcibly reminded that New York City is a Democratic stronghold. It was pleasant to see so many familiar faces I used to see more often when we lived in New York State.

MY ONLY REGRET was that, because there were so many people in the line, I could not leave it to go to see my mother-in-law, who was there. When I left to keep an appointment. I was not successful in finding out where she was, so I never saw her. I had several appointments at the Biltmore and it was nearly 7 o'clock before I returned to my apartment.

Last night I had to go to Boston, and so I gave up going to the country as I had originally hoped, realizing that I could not get away in time to be home for dinner.

Instead, we went to the play, a light and amusing comedy "George Washington Slept Here," by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart.

The leading woman's role, played by Jean Dixon, suits her perfectly and she does it delightfully. In fact, the whole cast is good and the dialogue most entertaining.

BOBBY CLARK SEEKS DRAMA ROLE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—Bobby Clark saw Dorothy Gish's performance in the Boston company of "Life With Father." He went backstage and confessed his ambition to portray the role of Father in one of the companies . . . "I could do it very well," said Clark—who, throughout his career, leaps about the stage, leering and beating his cane against the floor—"but of course you'd have to get some one to hold me down a bit."

ART DEPT.: On Nov. 17 the famous Jo Davidson statue of Walt Whitman will be dedicated formally at Bear Mountain, N. Y. Thomas Mann, president of the Walt Whitman Society, will speak at the ceremonies — together with Bob Moses, Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti and Alfred E. Smith . . . In 1910, when a group of New Yorkers subscribed to the fund for completing and erecting this statue in Battery Park, Smith — who then was a rising legislator— objected to its acceptance. At the ceremonies he will tell the story of his objection, made 30 years ago.

MISS HEPBURN

PERSONALS: When Katharine Hepburn attended the Hyde Park picnic she sat at the President's table with Edna Ferber and Mrs. George S. Kaufman. Katharine asked to use the phone, and while she was gone Miss Ferber confessed: "I'd love to know whether it's true that she's going to marry Garson Kanin' . . . "I've been reading about that, too," said the President. "Do you think it's true?" . . . "Why not ask her, Edna?" suggested Mrs. Kaufman . . Miss Hepburn returned to the table, and Edna began: "I have a very personal question to ask you. Is it true?" . . . "Is what true?" answered Miss Hepburn, blushing . . . "Are you going to do it?" continued Miss Ferber . . . "Oh, go ahead and do it," said the President. "Why don't you marry him?"

ILLUSTRATED DEPT.: Recently Leon Henderson, the SEC commissioner issued a statement showing the holdings owned by a few American families in the industries of this country . . . One of the families mentioned was the Rockefellers . . . Last week Henderson, who also is a member of the National Defense Council, was called to the council's offices to pose for a photograph of the entire defense board . . . "Leon," Ed Stettinius suggested, "for this picture you must stand over here." He pointed to a place next to Nelson Rockefeller.

MOVIE DEPT.: Jimmy Walker attended Thursday night's dinner given by the Picture Pioneers—an organization composed of men who at some time more than 25 years ago were engaged in the motion picture business. Walker is a member by reason of some legal work he had done for film companies long ago . . . Jimmy, whose new job is that of impartial chairman of the cloak and suit industry, told the guests that he had reversed the process. "Here's one guy," he confessed, "who went out of the picture business—and into the cloak and suit business."

Last week at the weekly poker game between Marc Connolly, Russel Crouse and the other members of the Thanatopsis Club, Harold Ross, editor of the New Yorker, examined his hand, made his discards and told the dealer: "Trrrrwah" . . . Ross then added: "That means 'three' in French" . . . "To me," was Theron Bamberger's criticism of Ross' pronunciation, "that sounds more like OCCUPIED French."

LOCAL NEWS: Gardner Jackson, head of Labor's Non-Partisan League and disciple of John L. Lewis, will stump for the President . . . The name of a Manhattan politician will be mentioned in the current kidnap trial of Sam Gasberg . . . Twentieth Century-Fox has purchased the movie rights to F. van Wyck Mason's "Ballerina Murders," the mystery story which will be published next month. Mason, whose "3 Harbours" and "Star on the Sea" were best sellers, is flying to Hollywood to discuss the script . . . Sam Levene, who is directing the Spewack play, also will appear in it . . . Dist. Atty. Foley has indictments voted in the Penn murder case, naming four men. Indictments haven't been filed yet.

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: The test pilots for Tin Pan Alley are the band leaders . . . Radio comedians who dictate the music of their programs are also testers . . . These chaps, however, do not pioneer very often, although Kenny Baker introduced "Umbrella Man" while working for Jack Benny, and Bing Crosby occasionally introduces a song.

THE TEST PILOTS RIGHT NOW are putting a very important model through its paces . . . "He's Your Uncle," is the name of it . . . It has been chosen from a heap of "patriotic songs" (also called "war songs") as the tune most likely to succeed . . . ("God Bless America" is excepted, because Irving Berlin has restricted its performance).

IF "HE'S MY UNCLE" CATCHES on, Tin Pan Alley will shake off its timidity on the matter of "war songs" . . . The ban has been on for more than a year, and this has been in effect in spite of the tremendous success of Berlin's "God Bless America" . . . The song-publishers have had two motives in not plugging "patriotic songs" (also called "flag-wavers") . . . One is a dread of being called war-mongers . . . The other is that the public has shied away from buying such songs.

IF YOU BEGIN TO HEAR more and more songs describing the great joys of being an American, you will know . . . that the test pilots have okayed "He's My Uncle" . . . Their way of knowing whether a model is commercial or isn't is by the number of requests . . . The publishers have the final verdict, and that is reached by the reports of sales from sheet-music-counters all over the country.

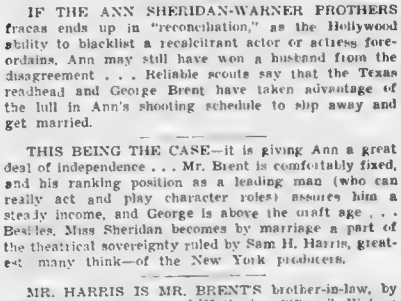
TOO MANY "BREATHERS" on the Boston College schedule are hurting the All-America chances of four or five of Francis "Open the Gates of Mercy" Leahy's maroon-and-gold Eagles . . . But it is nobody's fault . . . Weeks and months of work went into the spotty schedule the Boston College boys are working on now.

(Note: Seats are going fast for the Georgetown game. From this distance, the B. C.-Georgetown game looks like a sell-out.)

IF THE ANN SHERIDAN-WARNER BROTHERS fracas ends up in "reconciliation," as the Hollywood ability to blacklist a recalcitrant actor or actress foreordains, Ann may still have won a husband from the disagreement . . . Reliable scouts say that the Texas redhead and George Brent have taken advantage of the lull in Ann's shooting schedule to slip away and get married.

THIS BEING THE CASE—it is giving Ann a great deal of independence . . . Mr. Brent is comfortably fixed, and his ranking position as a leading man (who can really act and play character roles) assures him a steady income, and George is above the draft age . . . Besides, Miss Sheridan becomes by marriage a part of the theatrical sovereignty ruled by Sam H. Harris, greatest many think—of the New York producers.

MR. HARRIS IS MR. BRENT'S brother-in-law, by reason of having married Katherine "China" Watson Harris, George's sister . . . Sam always has a play



BROTHER REPORTED WED TO ANN SHERIDAN

Mrs. Sam H. Harris, George Brent's Sister

or two in the works, except when he's wintering at Palm Beach . . . And occasionally, his well-organized staff has been known to get a play ready while the boss is down south . . . Miss OOmph would be an excellent Broadway attraction, and Warners can't blacklist Mr. Harris if he hires her . . . Her Broadway wage would be at least four times the $500 per week she is reputed to be picking up each Saturday at the Messrs. Warners' pay-wickets.

ANN, THEREFORE, NEED NOT WORRY . . . Married or not, she won't have to worry . . . When the picture she was to have made is completed, she will be welcomed back—and perhaps with a raise . . . The publicity has been swell.

JACK WARNER PLANS NOVEL EXPERIMENT

By Louella O. Parsons

Jack Warner

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—Jack Warner, who is supposedly in New York to rest and [illegible] is more interested in business as usual. Since he's been in daily huddles with George Kaufman and Moss Hart about writing the play version of "One Foot in Heaven" which would play on Broadway and throughout the country with road companies at the same time the picture is released.

What particularly interested me about Jack's idea is that if this proves successful in stimulating interest (and how can it miss?) it will [illegible] other big pictures. Warners have always liked playing "angel" to good shows but it is an original idea to team up with their pictures. The experiment has big possibilities. It would provide a wonderful opportunity to stars Like Betty Davis, James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and others suffering from repressed footlight complexes to step right off the screen into a role they're feminar with [illegible] success.

BETTY GRABLE

THE WAY New York critics [illegible] overboard in their reviews on "Angels Over Broadway" I can't say it is a big surprise to know [illegible] Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Ben Hecht are going to make another picture together. When Doug was in New York he had long huddles with Hecht and while they have no title for the film they worked out, it is centered around a [illegible] in which Doug, Sr. used to play [illegible] against a modern background. They're dickering with three different companies for a release—but it won't be Columbia which released "Angels." Wonder why?

BETTY GRABLE, personal-appearing in Chicago, will come to New York for a visit and then she's heading back to the coast to get ready for the top feminine role in "The Great American Broadcast." Last week we told you Betty was out of "Tall, Dark and Handsome" and being saved for something else—and this is it. I was also interested in hearing that Archie Mayo, who has been settling a contract row with Samuel Goldwyn, now has everything settled and has been signed by 20th to megaphone their radio-musical. The last picture Archie made on that lot was "Four Sons."

THE DEAL for Ronald Colman to star in the sensational "There Shall Be No Night" in Alfred Lunt's role hasn't materialized—or has been postponed. Yesterday I learned that Colman's next will be "Palm Beach Limited," an original by George Beer and Lewis Verneuil, and it's very much on the comedy side. Not having counted the votes for watched the box office reports very carefully) on "Lucky Partners" I don't know whether the Ginger Rogers picture is responsible for the idea to repeat on a comedy or not. Personally, I like Colman better in the romantic lover type of thing he did with Vilma Banky. The United Producers Corporation, headed by Ronnie's manager, Bill Hawks, will produce the film on the RKO lot.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AND NEW YORK: Mary Astor's ex, Dr. Franklin Thorpe, is on the verge of matrimony again with Virginia Bancroft; speaking of "exes," Jane Truex (who was Mrs. Ernest Truex) left the Beverly Tropics the other noon to visit the marriage license bureau with Warren Newmark; the cutest gift I've heard of in a long time is the one Victor Mature bought Betty Grable. It is a pin with the initials B. G. ? M (Betty Grable ? Mature)—in case you didn't figure it out. That's one way of popping the question.

FRANCHOT TONE and Olivia De Havilland are just pretending they don't care. Franchot, by the way, has done a complete about-face and says he's giving up the stage forever for the movies. Quite different from the way he used to feel; Margaret Roach left the hospital Sunday but she must rest at home; the Lloyd Nolans are expecting their baby in two weeks; a bad case of the flu delayed Irene Rich's visit to New York to welcome her new grandson; Mrs. Marie Fox, Virginia Zanuck's mother, will spend the winter in Honolulu; Pat Dane, who used to be Ken Murray's big moment and who has been appearing in a show, flew out to the coast to meet Lt. Jim Robb, just in from Honolulu; Eddie Albert and Helen Lars a Wilshire Bowl duet;

An interesting floor show on tap this week at Jack Brown's gay Casa Manana . . . the limelight to Tom Harty, featured dancer . . . and to Bob Hardy's rhythm crew . . . A word of appreciation to the grand job being done by Capt. We're bursting through the doors at the Mayfair this week to pin our posie to the shoulder of one of the loveliest and most capable entertainers that this village has seen in all its after-dusk history, Miss Mitzie Green . . . all too often the child stars of yesterday twinkle through their night, then are dimmed and forgotten . . . but Mitzi, from one of the cutest tricks ever to scamper across a flicker, has blossomed into a sweet and talented and unassuming young woman whose achievements are winning the applause of the town . . . and on the purely practical side, we venture a guess that Miss Mitzi will pull in more do-re-mi for the Mayfair than have such stars as Sophie Tucker and Sheila Barrett . . . At the Beachcomber on Friday evening opens one of Cuba's foremost dance maestros . . . Albert Socarras, one time member of the Havana Symphony. Another major upset in band personnel finds the nimble-fingered Zeke Zarchy parting ways with the Glenn Miller brass section . . . and bye the bye, is that feud between Glenn and Bob Crosby hot!

Plenty of rip-roaring action in the Conga vein may be found at the Hurricane, that Cambridge st. spot which the town has taken to its fancy . . . a new band opens this p. m., with a fast tropical show and top-flight rhumba artists that merit this oasis a must spot on your date pad . . . Manager Jack Chan of the Ruby Den, the perfect host.

That popular pied-piper, Joe Rines, opens tonight with his band at the Providence Biltmore . . . a sturdy round of applause attends Joe's New England homecoming . . . Tommy Rodefield and his 8 Men of Rhythm deserve a nod for the danceable tunes being served up at Cappy's . . . a nice show all around this week at the delightful North Easton spot.

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Well—I'm tickled silly with the many letters that folks have written to me on my opening column! I never knew that so many people were interested in me. I'm answering personally all letters that were written in English with a new secretary. Izzy Ort goes social!

Here I am settin' in my grill at 25 Essex street landscaping a herring; that's ripping the jacket off it! In a few minutes I'll be whizzing over the roof tops of Boston, in an American Airline plane on my way to Philadelphia to see Mike Kaplan fight Milt Aarons. Incidentally, I figure Mike to win. Here's where Izzy Ort goes out on the limb as a sports forecaster. I never miss!

Am I worried about the trip? Not a bit. Ain't science wonderful? Here today and gone to Philadelphia almost before you can say El Tropico three times! Anyway, I've got all kinds of insurance—even against termites. What can I lose?

Have I got a great show in the Grill and in my El Tropico Room this week! A guy walked in here last night with a look on his face as old as a mummy's nose. Before the show was half over he was leaping around like a cabbage bouncing around in an empty freight car!

Diets is great things. I'm using one now. I'm feeling OK, but the sawbones think I need a change of oil or something. I'm getting used to it now, although about all I can eat is waste paper, raw carrots and lead pencils.

Don't forget the Hallowe'en party at my Grill. It's going to be a wow! I'll be back for it myself. Buy a falseface and come down for the gayest party in town! Adv.

NO MATTER whether your shopping list calls for a grandfather's clock or a tea cosy, the Yankee Trading Post's the place to go for unusual bargains . . . The Trading Post, a market patterned after our ancestors' ancient custom of bartering, will be held tomorrow and Wednesday at 575 Boylston street for the benefit of the Children's Hospital . . .

It's a glorified rummage sale in which everyone who contributes items to be sold shares half the profits and the hospital gets the rest . . . In addition to all the busy saleswomen, a group of debs and post debs has been enlisted as "runners" to help out with all the odd jobs, wrapping packages and serving a snack luncheon to hungry customers . . .

The bevy of runners will include Alice Chapin, Diana Bird, Dorothy Rackemann, Eleanor Shaw, Evelyn Baker, Eugenia Merrill, Jeanne Clark, Julia Falvey, Fanny Whitney, Anne Blake, Edith Shaw, Nancy Sears, Betsy Cooper, Elizabeth Jenney, Emily Rice, Leslie Morgan, Priscilla Blumer, Mrs. John Coburn, Polly Faulkner, Mrs. Brinley Morgan Hall, Peggy Powers, Margaret Lunc, Peggy Floyd, Christine Mutty, Frances Holbrook, Martha Chapin and many others . . .

Hallowe'en Party

By MARTHA LEE

Being a hostess at a Hallowe'en party is almost more fun than being a guest. The ghosts, owls, pussy cats and other frightening characters purported to be abroad that night help put the guests in a mood for a frolic, and there is boundless variety in the decorations and games you may select.

Let the Hallowe'en characters take over from the very start when you send the guests one by one through a dark room guided only by a string tied at the other end. The path directed by the string is, of course, strewn with pillows, boxes and various other frightening impediments. And tied to the string are pieces of fur, brushes and other articles of an eerie nature to cause gasps of fear and shouts of merriment.

PLAY "IDENTITY"

Sooner or later, there comes a time for food. Before it is served, of course, you must get everyone's mind away from ghoulish things. Have your guests play the game of "Identity" and the lively banter that results will extend through the evening.

To start it, hand everyone a slip of paper on which he is to write the characteristic in the opposite sex he dislikes most, the the name of his favorite food and the name of an article of clothes he can best do without. These slips are gathered up, shaken together, and then each draws one to read aloud to the group. It is up to the crowd then to guess who is the author of each slip. You will be surprised how easy it is in some cases and how hard in others.

FOOD TO SERVE

Hearty foods served informally are best for Hallowe'en. Buffet service is recommended and menus that can be prepared quickly and with ease are suggested. In the following menu, spaghetti with ham and mushrooms served in ramekins play the role of main dish. The deliciously flavored cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese that comes in cans is used to speed the preparation of the menu. It can be combined with the ham and mushrooms in the casseroles earlier in the day ready to pop in the oven just 20 minutes before serving time.

HALLOWE'EN MENU

Spaghetti with Ham and Mushrooms in Ramekins
Green Salad Bowl French Dressing
Hot Buttered Rolls
Grape Jelly
Fresh Cucumber Pickle
Mince Meat Turnovers
Coffee

SPAGHETTI WITH HAM AND MUSHROOMS IN RAMEKINS

¼ lb. fresh, or 1 (4 oz.) can mushrooms, thinly sliced
1 cup diced cooked ham or tongue
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
2 tbsp. butter
1 large (24-oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce

Fry mushrooms, meat and onion in butter. Heat spaghetti. Place mushroom and meat combination in individual casseroles or ramekins between layers of spaghetti. Bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

For real simplicity, serve Hallowe'en refreshments snack style, having each guest spread his own sandwiches from a supply of different kinds of breads and spreads you have laid out in tempting fashion on the dining table. If you like, have a toaster also ready for their use. A molded salad of crisp fresh vegetables in jellied tomato juice makes an attractive appearance in this menu. A divided relish dish containing ripe mission olives and preserved sweet gherkins is grand with this. And for dessert, have orange sherbet served with apple butter cresents. Here are some simple recipes for sandwich fillings the guests will enjoy spreading themselves:

PICKLE AND CHEESE SPREAD

Mash ¼ lb. sharp-flavored Cheddar cheese with a fork, then add ½ cup chopped fresh cucumber pickle, 2 tbsp. mayonnaise and 1 tbsp. tomato ketchup. Blend thoroughly.

PEANUT BUTTER AND MUSTARD PICKLE SANDWICH FILLING

Combine equal amounts of peanut butter and sweet mustard pickle which has been chopped.

DEVILED EGG SANDWICHES

Chop 5 hard-cooked eggs finely, then add ½ cup sandwich spread, ½ tsp. salt and ⅛ tsp. pepper and blend thoroughly.

You Can Be Beautiful

Miraculous for Complexions Is This 'New Life' Cream

By ARLINE GOULD

EVERY once in a cosmetic blue moon, a really great cream emerges from among the others . . . and nowadays that's a more difficult test than ever, because cosmetics are so rigidly supervised, any cream has to be super-good to make its mark!

It's a cream which is fairly new but until this season was only to be had as part of the youth-rebuilding massage treatments of a famous New York salon. On this earth-tinted cream they practically constructed their reputation for almost miraculous aid to complexions which were being beaten down by the years, or the strenuous pace of social and career lives in New York. As for the prices charged on the massage treatments with "new life" cream, which is the literal translation of its name we'll just leave that to your imagination!

However, it was discovered that because of the extreme penetrative properties of the cream, it could be used with marvelous success at home without massage. And that news should be the most important, since they got the vote, to women who would like to stay what the French call "Ladies of uncertain age." If they don't want to acknowledge their 40-odd or 50-odd years, they'll find this cream on their side. There certainly is no age limit, though . . . there are over-twenty-fives who need this help!

"New Life" cream is not a frivolous item . . . it isn't cloud pink or fluffy . . . it's earth-colored, redolent of aromatic, herbal things, but faintly so, and its texture is heavy, heavy. In it are herbs, vitamins, glandular derivatives, and it combines the miracle work of extreme creams. It should be used with necessary sparseness of touch . . . for it is so "melty" and penetrative, that it will escape your fingertips and spread everywhere. Concentrate it where you need it most . . . around the eyes, temples, between the eyebrows, and around the mouth.

If you'd like to learn all about this "new life" cream . . . phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Spite Fence

By Carl Truitt

EVERYBODY on the desert knows Tillie Clow. She's old and tied up, with a disposition like a hangover from a murder that's clinched on the inside. She runs sheep and owns some of the best land in the state, as well as half of Spenceville.

The Cast of Characters in "Spite Fence"

TILLIE, a penurious spinster who shows her dislike for BILLY, her brother, by placing a high fence between their homes.

The CLINES, Tillie's neighbors.

When Tillie's father died he split his property between Tillie and her brother, William, who was an easy-going, friendly sort of guy who was a sucker for a hard-luck story. What with payments and mines that didn't happen to pay and ranching that didn't happen to be, and the Hebrew sob sisters that made this territory their ward dwindled fast.

Not Tillie! Getting a morsel from her was like trying to pet her left arm. She was just honest, and I don't mean maybe for me, but I mean real honest. She paid her taxes on time, and if she was ever late with a penny note it was a mistake.

The first time I met her was when she flagged me down on the road in front of the Silverbar Ranch on my way to Spenceville. She pulled up her car and I pulled over to the side. She was a tall, gaunt woman, Miss Clow was, with a face like a hatchet and a mouth to match. She was, as I soon found out, a bear with a sore head most of the time.

I guess she figured me for a sucker as well as a stranger. She had the back yard of her home all set to plant some shade trees and vines, and Nature knows that anyone that had to live in that country needs shade.

I sold her the trees and the vines and the fertilizer and the water pipe and the sprinkler system, and I didn't have to do any talking at all. I just stood on the road and listened to somebody.

"She's just a lonesome old woman," Nina said when I was telling her about it that night. "I'll bet she wouldn't even mind them enough. Honey, I've got something and she ought to have it. Tillie had anything at all inside of her she would have given it to us long ago. I don't believe she's even seen it."

She had a point. Tillie seemed a natural Mother Watch with her and I did, but how was I to know my head?

Then I made a couple of swings of cottages at Nice Beach, in Spenceville, and I was busy and when Nina and I got around the only thing that seemed to fit the old rip I'd taken a shine to was a picture. It had little ivy with a nice brick path and the Nina has the power to do anything you'd do her but that we rent it.

TILLIE BUILDS FENCE

Just about then Windy Wilson wandered back into Spenceville, sick and flatter than a pancake on a hunger strike. Tillie moved him right out of the house the very day he came and he didn't get back to the County Arms House before he'd made a killing with a golf.

The upshot of it was that we moved into the house on the river side of it when Nina was very busy and I made it a point to take it in the morning when she was getting up.

She said she'd never want to see him again as long as she lived and so she wouldn't see him and up a fifteen-foot fence between the two houses. The fence didn't take a nice background for the climbing roses and wistaria she planted against it, but it was sure bad on the other side, because it shut off most all of the sun from William's house.

Before she put up the fence there had been a few scraggly rosebushes on the other side. Once when I came past I saw William puttering around them, but you couldn't make them grow any more than you could in a cave.

Tillie got her rent regular from us and when she saw how nice we were fixing up the yard, she kind of cracked. She teetered over to the fence one day, on her cane—she was getting pretty wobbly, but rain or shine, she went out to her Sweetwater Ranch every week.

She edged up with half a dozen bulbs she'd made Mattie dig up for us. Nina asked her about planting them, and before long Tillie came as near smiling as her skinny pan would let her.

"Do you know what, Windy?" Nina said when we went into the house. She had a kind of crafty look in her eyes, and when she gets that things are on the way to happen.

"No—what?" I come back

"I'm going to make her tear that fence down! It's a shame for that poor old man to be lying over there sick, without one bit of sunshine!" Then I wormed out of her about how she had been taking soup and things over to William Clow.

"You'll sell doughnuts and pay off the national debt, too." I said.

"Laugh, smarty . . . but you'll see!" When Nina makes her little oval chin look hard, you quit kidding her.

One afternoon when Nina was taking William some jam she'd made, she had me go with her. While she was in the house she had me dig around the three or four rosebushes on William's side of the fence. It looked silly, because even I could see they could never get any place, but Nina wanted it . . .

Then, about a week later, when I was on my vacation, we were puttering around in our garden when Tillie was bossing Mattie around on her side of the fence. It was more like quarreling, but Tillie was always nagging, so our being out didn't stop her.

"Mattie!" she snapped

"Yaam." Mattie pulled while she was trying to put up a cheese-wire from the seventh bed.

"Them wistarias is runnin' over which way. Git up there an' train 'em along th' fence"

"Can't, ma'am" Mattie kind of whined, looking at the top of the fence. "I'm gittin' too hefty fer climbin'."

"That's a high fence, ma'am."

"Ain't high nuff!" Tillie sputtered.

"Just the same, ma'am, it don't seem right fer Mr. Billie t' be layin' there sick, an' this fence shettin' th' sunshine out.'

Nina hunched me in the ribs. Tillie went on:

"Tain't no fault o' mine! Paw left him as much as me—only I keep mine. He give his'n t' ever' Tom, Dick an' Harry. Let them as he helped look out for him! I never wanta lay eye on him ag'in!" I heard Tillie's false teeth click.

"Mr. Billing was alius the' g'ven'ist man. Seems like you . . ." I'd noticed that Mattie never had much chance to finish anything she started to say.

Like I oughta do more fer him, eh?" Tillie snorted. "I give him that house, didn't I? I'm furnishin' him grub, ain't I?"

"Y-a-a . . . but . . ."

"Well . . . it's nuff!" and Tillie went on a new tack. "What's that flossum' on top a th' fence, Mattie?—whatever they cost! These is awful!"

Mattie squinted up to where Tillie was looking. "I don't see nothin', ma'am."

I saw Nina edge toward the fence with one of her best smiles. "I see what you mean, Miss Clow," she broke in. "It's a Paul Scarlet rose from your brother's garden. I saw it the other day as I passed down the alley to the grocery. It was just a bud then, Isn't it funny how it struggled up out of the dark to put out a glorious flower like that? I think it's the only one he could make grow."

"Humph!" Tillie grunted. "None o' mine's bloomin' yet!"

"Some people just have the knack." Nina shrugged her shoulders like she couldn't understand it. "It must be they're just sweet inside. Red roses mean love . . . but of course you know that, Miss Clow. It seems nice to think your brother is sending you a message of love in the form of a beautiful rose . . . doesn't it, Miss Clow?"

"Humph!" Tillie grunted again, but it wasn't that sneery "humph" like most of them were.

A few minutes later we heard her ragging Mattie in the house, then the two of them came down the back steps, Tillie with her, 30-year-old hat cocked right square on top of her head.

"Miz Cline!" she called kind of sheepishly. "Mattie an' me's goin' over t' see William. Wonder if you'd 'phone an' pull down that fence." She was too tight to have a telephone of her own.

"I can beat that," Nina said with an I-told-you-so look at me. "Mr. Cline will take the fence down! He will do it so he won't endanger your bushes and vines."

"Huh?" I looked at her to see if she was kidding, but she wasn't. I was stuck for a full day's job, and I was on my vacation, too.

"For the love of Mike, Windy! Step on it!" she hurried under her breath. "If she ever gets wise that that's one of her own roses I pulled through a knot-hole the other day . . . she'll murder me!"

THE END.

Be sure to read Alma and Paul Ellerbe's story on this page tomorrow. The title is "In the Bag."

"I'm gittin' too hefty fer climin'." That's a high fence, ma'am."

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Today's Winners

Questions 13A and 13B which appear in today's Check Sheet were suggested by Mr. Frank Clerio, 30 Pearl Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, and Lillian Manning, 138 Riverside Avenue, Medford, Massachusetts.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Look at this Check Sheet. Below each question there appear four suggested answers—one of which is the correct answer to the question.

The same number of question-cartoons appears in each daily Check Sheet—just three. And what's more, each question-cartoon to appear in the Record-American during the contest will have below it exactly four suggested answers—no more and no less—with one of those four suggested answers the correct one to the question.

The idea is to CHECK the answer you consider correct. And remember this: You don't have to get them all right in order to win. It's just a matter of who gets the highest score!

ONLY ONE CORRECT ANSWER TO EACH QUESTION

Now, another important point: There will be one and only one correct answer to each question. There will be no questions based on opinion. No—in this contest, all questions are based on FACT, with one and only one correct answer possible, and that answer completely and indisputably provable.

HOW ANSWERS ARE TO BE SUBMITTED

Each week, six Check Sheets are printed in the Record and American (you can follow the contest in either paper)—one each day, from Monday through Saturday. Each week's six Check Sheets comprise a series, and each week's series should be submitted within the week following publication, accompanied by 10c in coin, as required by the rules.

NEATNESS DOESN'T COUNT!

NO LETTERS OR ESSAYS TO WRITE!

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American GAME OF CHECK is open to all persons living in the New England States. However no employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American or Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, nor any newspaper dealers and carriers who deliver the Boston Record the Boston American or Sunday Advertiser, nor any person acting as a proxy for another, nor any person who has won $500 or more in any contest, may win a prize.

2—Beginning Monday, October 14, 1940, a check sheet will be published each weekday in the Boston American and the Boston Record. Each check sheet will contain three cartoon questions. Four and only four suggested answers will be printed under each cartoon question used in the daily check sheets. One and only one of these suggested answers is the correct answer to the question appearing above. Six check sheets published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen series. Answers to each week's series of cartoon questions should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, P. O. Box 2337, c o the Boston Record-American Game of Check. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes to those 100 contestants who, by their answers, achieve the 100 highest scores. A check sheet will not be judged as a unit—each and every question will be judged separately. Thus, a contestant will get credit for each question correctly answered. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking questions, and if necessary, a second third or fourth set of tie-breaking questions. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking questions. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking questions without assistance, in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of Check Sheets with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of check sheets and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special quiz booklet created by Harold Hart, author of the famous quiz volume, "Invitation to Fun."

6—Any person, by entering this contest understands that it is a contest of individual effort, and agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time before or after January 27th, the closing date for any cause deemed necessary, the applications of the rules, the establishment of time limitations, the judging of answers, the scoring of answers, and the interpretation of such instructions governing individual questions as may be announced by the officials of the contest. By entering this contest, participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. If more than one prize will be awarded to members of any one immediate family. The Boston Record American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American to the contestant.

HOW TO GET A LOAN AT LOWER COST

Reduced rates cut payments on all loans over $100

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $300 at Household Finance at rates substantially below the lawful maximum—if you can repay in small monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Payments in the table repay everything. Household's rate of 2½% per month has long been below the lawful maximum. Now a new reduction has cut Household's rate to 2% per month on that part of your loan in excess of $100.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the papers with you.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

TOM HARMON ONCE more proved he is football's No. 1 star when he played brilliantly as Michigan won from Penn . . . Like other sports champions, Harmon plays best when the chips are down . . . You may once more name the Michigan sensation for your All-America eleven.

TOM HARMON

Dartmouth won over Harvard by force of habit rather than because it had a superior eleven . . . The "Big Green" eleven refused to give up when the Crimson secured a 6 to 0 lead, and rallied to win by a lone point in a 7 to 6 victory . . . Joe Cashman in his special articles to this newspaper from Hanover, N. H., last week declared Dartmouth was prepared to go to town at the Stadium, and the Indians didn't let Joe down.

With the Ivy League purge, Harvard, Dartmouth and Princeton have been levelled off to equal strength . . . The reform element will now go gunning for Cornell and Penn . . . It may soon be made an offense for an Ivy Leaguer to know anything about football.

Frank Leahy would like to find an opponent capable of making his Boston College team extend itself . . . Idaho and St. Anselm failed to give the Eagles more than a workout . . . Manhattan may do better on Saturday . . . Then will come Boston University, Georgetown and Auburn before the Holy Cross game.

With Fritz Crisler and Tom Harmon at Michigan, Harvard should be able to win over Princeton at the Stadium on Saturday . . . Since Crisler left Princeton, football has been very much on the down grade at Jungletown . . . The Tigers easily won from Rutgers last Saturday, and may possess enough of a gridiron wallop to conquer Harvard.

Amateur Ring Kings in Arena Battles

THE FALL AMATEUR boxing season will reach a new high at the Arena tonight when the finals in the Golden Gloves tournament are staged under the direction of the Irish-American A. C. . . . The trial contests have produced an abundance of action, and it is expected that the tussles in the eight championship classes tonight will be thrillers.

George Freeman and Tom Kanaly inform me that there is an abundance of top flight amateur boxing material this season . . . These young boxers realize that if they can make good in the amateurs that they can parade to fistic fame and glory in the professional ranks.

There have been numerous expressions of sympathy for the family of Peter Carr, former member of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, who was buried with services in Lawrence today . . . For eight years Carr was a member of the Boxing Commission . . . He did much to help the sport in this State . . . He was always willing to give what assistance he could to clubs and boxers who were making efforts to benefit the ring game.

During his years in public life, Carr made many friends throughout the Merrimac Valley and in those sections of the State where he went in connection with his duties as a Boxing Commissioner.

Night Editor at Top of His Form

YOU COULD NOT ask for a better race than the one turned in by Night Editor as he won the White Mountain Handicap at Rockingham Park . . . A week previous Night Editor won the Bennington Handicap at the Salem, N. H., racing strip.

Range Dust was the only horse that gave Night Editor any contention in the race through the stretch . . . Sheldon Fairbanks had told his friends that Range Dust was ready for a top effort, but the fast sprinter had the misfortune to encounter Night Editor while the latter was at his best.

Can't Wait just couldn't and so won the $15,000 George Washington Handicap at Laurel . . . This is the race from which Challedon was scratched because William L. Brann considered 133 pounds "excessive" weight . . . If Challedon had started, Maryland fans would have witnessed a thrilling race as Can't Wait had one of his good days . . . Housework was at his best at Rockingham on Saturday, and ran away from his field.

Jockey Walter Taylor proved he rides with his head as well as with his hands and legs when he came in on the rail with Burning Stick to win . . . A spot along the rail is still the shortest way home, but some jockeys do not seem to realize this fact.

Paul Bowser has purchased a table for his party at the testimonial dinner to Sergeant Eddie Mack that will be held at the Copley Plaza on Saturday evening, Nov. 9 . . . The committee in charge of the dinner will hold a meeting at the Copley Plaza at 8 p. m. . . . George Wiswell, who has staged so many successful shows for the Crosscup Pishon Post, is among those who are working for the success of the Mack testimonial.

CRIMSON NAMES 9 STARS SENT TO ITHACA BY GRADS

Relentlessly, the Harvard Crimson today continued to fire charges and counter-charges at Cornell's athletic policies. In this morning's paper, the Crimson attacked the Big Red's policy of granting scholarships and said that Harvard and Cornell should not be allowed to meet on the gridiron under the present divergent ideas of how to assemble a football team.

The "Crimson" scribes claimed they don't mean to point out that what Cornell is doing is wrong but that it is contrary to Harvard's athletic policies. The undergraduate daily states:

LOOSE TALK CHARGED

"There has been a lot of loose talk about 'cycles' by our Cornell cousins.

"They point out that every team has its ups and downs, and that the sportsmanlike thing to do is to sit tightly, say nothing and prepare for the inevitable invasion of All-America football talent that is sure to come by in a few years. That's what Cornell did, they say, and now look.

"The only trouble with the 'cycle' business is that there are different kinds of cycles.

"There are tricycles and bicycles, and the little velocipede that Bill Bingham is pedaling doesn't stand a chance against Jim Lynch's brand new whizbang racing special.

"Harvard undoubtedly will have a better team some day, but the time when under a non-subsidization policy Harvard is able to knock off Ohio State 21-7 is still a few million light years away."

"SPENDING POLICY" CITED

The Crimson went on to state that Cornell got out of its football depression by a spending policy. The various Cornell Clubs subscribed to a plan of setting up regional scholars.

The Crimson writers pointed out that last year all Big Red alumni were given a letter which showed the fruits of the first roundup.

From the New York area alone, the alumni sent nine students to Cornell. Eight of them were later to become varsity football players, and the ninth was a member of the varsity basketball and baseball team.

PLAYERS LISTED

The Crimson listed the players who were sent to Cornell by the New York club:

K. G. Brown, 1939 co-captain of football; D. R. Goodkind, 6 feet, 3 inch, 210-pound sub tackle for All-America Nick Drahos; K. E. Hilpot, 195-pound end who would probably be a regular if not injured most of the season, and H. F. McCullough, varsity tailback and potential All-America.

Also Walt Scholl, varsity halfback who ran wild against Ohio State last Saturday; W. J. Murphy, 186-pound regular back; Henry Moran, varsity letterman in football last year; James T. Schmuck, first string left end; W. G. Mogk, varsity baseball and basketball veteran.

'Contrary to Fact' Retorts Coach Snavely

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—Coach Carl Snavely of Cornell University dismissed as "contrary to fact" accusations of L. W. St. John, Ohio State athletic director, that he directed the Big Red's offensive plays from the sidelines.

"Mr. St. John's charges," said Snavely, "are unwarranted and contrary to fact.

"The officials of this game were perfectly competent and were empowered by the rules to take action in the case of illegal activity on the bench or sidelines.

"If Mr. St. John had any complaints, they should have been made to the officials during the course of the game."

VITT'S SUCCESSOR? Stanley "Bucky" Harris, Senators' manager, who is leading candidate for Cleveland post. Mickey Cochrane and Luke Sewell are also being considered.

Indians Fire Vitt; May Name Harris

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29 (AP)—President Alva Bradley announced today the Cleveland Indians "have decided not to renew Oscar Vitt's contract" as manager. Selection of a new pilot, Bradley added, will be made some time in the future.

The decision was announced by Bradley after a meeting of five of the club's nine directors. The baseball fraternity generally had believed Vitt's days were numbered after a midseason player rebellion.

Vitt came to Cleveland after managing the Newark Bears of the International League. The Indians finished third in his first two American League seasons.

After rolling up a five and a half game lead in August, they wound up in second place this fall, a game behind the Detroit Tigers.

Before the meeting, Bradley would admit only two things:

That he had talked with Bucky Harris, Washington pilot, and Luke Sewell, Cleveland coach, about the job.

The 44-year-old Harris, 17 years a big league manager, was atop the mythical list. Asked at his Washington home whether he would take the job if it were offered him, he parried:

"Well, that's one of those things where you're looking into a crystal ball."

Sewell, reached at his home in Akron, O., said:

"As far as I know there is no job open. Sure I would be interested if there is. A man always wants to better himself."

Asked if he believed he could check dissension in the club, the former Cleveland catcher replied:

"Certainly. I wouldn't take the job if I didn't think so."

Mickey Cochrane, who piloted Detroit to the world title in 1935, and Roger Peckinpaugh, Cleveland manager from 1928 to 1933, were rated dark horses.

Cochrane now is in business in Detroit and Peckinpaugh, who lives here, is connected with the league in a promotional capacity.

Harvard Proves It Can Go Places With Smart Pilot

By JOE CASHMAN

It might be a good idea for Coach Dick Harlow to call off football practice today and chase his Harvard gridmen up to Stillman Infirmary for an amnesia test.

The Crimson charges reached a new peak in many respects in the game with Dartmouth on Saturday last. Their ground offensive and their kicking, for instance, was the best they have shown all year.

Their improvement availed them nothing, because they made one mistake. They lost their thinking caps.

They had been drilled on passing attack all week. They had been reading most of the week that they had led Army the Saturday before, because the Soldiers had committed the cardinal sin of trying a forward deep down in their own territory, while enjoying a six-point lead in the last half of the ball game.

SCORE QUICKLY

So what did the Har-low-vards do?

They started out by scoring a touchdown in a hurry on a rehearsed play.

Fran Lee caught a first-period punt on his own 18. He faked handing the ball back to Captain Joe Gardella, who swung wide to the right. Dartmouth fell for the feint. It swung into a defense to stop the Crimson leader.

Quicker than it takes to describe it, ten Harvards were stretched out in an impenetrable wall, parallel to their left side line. And back of that barrier, Lee raced to a touchdown with no Indian ever getting within ten yards of him.

Joe Koufman missed the try for conversion.

NEGLECT AIR ATTACK

And from then on, memory ceased to function for these Harvard lads, who had looked like a combination of Notre Dame, Cornell and Minnesota on that touchdown trek.

They were so elated over six points that they forgot their entire offensive with the exception of their kicking. They didn't take to the air once in the first period and went up there only twice in the second quarter, the last time being on the last play of the half.

On the rare occasions when they weren't calling on Larry MacKinney for incredible punts they stuck to ground plays even though these same plays had failed them in three earlier games.

Unfortunately for them, the respite between halves gave them a chance to remember or be reminded that their most impressive offensive weapon was the pass.

They received at the start of the second half. They got the ball on their 35 because the Dartmouth kick went out of bounds.

SUN BLINDS McNICOL

And on the very first play from scrimmage they blew the ball game in the very same way they saw Army blow one in the Stadium just seven days earlier.

Without taking any time to warm up and get the feel of the ball, they decided to pass well inside their own territory with the sun in their eyes, and while clinging to a lead which a touchdown and conversion would wipe out.

Don McNicol faded back to his 30. He raised his free hand to shut out Ol Sol's glare and, half blinded, let go of the ball which skidded off the paws of one Dartmouth charger into the arms of Allston Dan Dacey, who paraded to the Crimson 22 before he was downed.

Four plays and the score was tied.

Capt. Lou Young succeeded in converting for the Green where Koufman had failed for the Crimson.

And when the final whistle blew, Dartmouth was in front, 7 to 6, and boasting of seven straight victories and eight years without defeat in the Stadium.

Trailing, the Harvards continued to be strangely reluctant about passing, probably because their overhead effort in the half had turned out so disastrously.

They got rolling from midfield late in the third period but they didn't throw. Instead, they tried two rushes which gave them eight yards and then lost the ball on a fumble.

Finally, with about two minutes left to play, they showed what they could do up in the ozone when they concentrated on it.

PASS ATTACK WORKS

A Spreyer to Brown pass, in the flat and with the receiver getting beautiful interference, moved the ball from the Harvard 20 to 35. Another back-of-the-line fling, McNichol to Brown, spelled first down on the Harvard 45.

Another, McNicol to Brown, way out on the wing, found the receiver moving back of a wall of interferers to the Dartmouth 35, only to stumble and fumble the egg just when it looked as though he might go on to score.

The omnipresent Dartmouth captain, Lou Young, was there to fall on the loose ball and four plays later the game ended with the Green in possession.

There was some excuse for the Crimson refusal to try more passing in the first half, what with the left-footed McKinney giving one of the greatest punting exhibitions in Stadium history. He booted spirals as far as 70 yards over all against a wind that was almost a gale. He averaged 51 yards on nine punts.

And maybe that game-settling pass on the first play of the second half was a gamble worth taking. It conceivably could have completely surprised the Big Green and developed into a touchdown which would have cinched the game for the Crimson.

But one is unable to offer any plausible alibi for the Har-low-vard's failure to try twice as many passes as they attempted once they were behind.

On the whole, its showing was far more satisfactory than its work against Michigan or Army, yet it failed to beat a mediocre Dartmouth team that always was represented by 11 hustling, fighting players but lacked a standout performer unless it was Capt. Lou Young.

Dartmouth won principally because it made fewer mistakes and used a little more common sense than the opposition.

What of Harvard's future?

Next Saturday it must face Princeton, rated superior to Dartmouth. Then Penn, Brown and Yale.

Penn beat Yale 50 to 0 and the Elis whipped Dartmouth, Brown beat Holy Cross on Saturday last.

LACKING IN GREY MATTER

Harvard, indeed, is no cinch to win a single major game this season, now that it has been scalped by the Indians from Hanover.

Yet, in that game last Saturday, the Har-low-vards showed enough potential ability to have an even-money chance against Princeton, Brown and Yale.

If they can only retrieve their thinking caps, there's no reason why they shouldn't entertain hope of finishing up with more victories than defeats.

GREEN CAUGHT FLAT-FOOTED—A Harvard reverse in the reverse against Dartmouth. When the Crimson was leading 6 to no and riding high in the first period of the game with Dartmouth in the Stadium on Saturday, the cameraman caught Mel Gordon carrying through a wide hole on this favorite Harlow reverse to the weak side. On this play, Gordon was the wingback on the strong side. The ball went direct to Charlie Spreyer at tailback and he started to his right of strong side. Then he pivoted and handed the pigskin to Brown, who turned and ran back towards the left when the ball was snapped. Capt. Joe Gardella, from bucking back post, went left to take out John Kelley, Green right end. Meanwhile, Loren McKinney, Harvard left end, turned in the Dartmouth right tackle and Gordon, back of blocking back George Heiden went on to make a nice gain before Ray Hall, on the Green secondary, pulled him down.

BEAR STREAK BROKEN

The all too brief home season for Boston's Bears has come to an end and the local entry now hits the road for their remaining games with an excellent chance of coming up with the American League championship in their first year as an organized team.

Even the fact that their winning streak of four straight games was abruptly halted by the Milwaukee Chiefs who downed the Casey charges 14 to 0 at Fenway Park yesterday, has not changed the opinion of Eddie Casey that the Bears will still take the flag.

Yesterday's defeat knocked the Bears out of first place into a tie for second with Milwaukee. Both teams have a season's record of four victories and two defeats while Columbus is out front with five victories in six starts.

If the Bears can beat the Chiefs in Milwaukee next Sunday and take the Bulls when they clash next month, the Boston outfit can wip that flag.

Brighton and Southie Battle for Grid Title

By SAM BROCKA

There are a number of schoolboy battles on tap this week that may go a long way in deciding a couple of titles for the 1940 season.

The district championship will be at stake tomorrow afternoon as the Beehive as defending champions, Brighton high takes on the high scoring South Boston eleven in the top notch Hub tilt of the week.

On Friday evening, Peabody high, the schoolboy "hit parade" team of the season, will practically settle the North Shore argument with Lynn English as an opponent. Should they win this contest they have a justifiable claim to top honors in the State title fight.

After these two important engagements, the undefeated field will be reduced to four unbeaten teams.

Brighton winner of three games played this year and Southie, victors of four straight, should provide the Boston school following with the best football seen this year at National League Field.

On their records alone, Coach Steve White's gang rules a favorite to win and avenge the 0 to 13 loss last year.

Southie has rolled up the remarkable total of 136 points scored in their four games played and in so doing, showed all around strength, especially defensively as a lone touchdown scored against them mars a near perfect record.

Brighton met stern competition and was forced to the limit to win all its games.

It will be just a case of Capt. Harry "Hurricane" McDonough matching wits with Capt. Paul Bradbury.

Everett High, also undefeated and tied and another strong contender for the state title, entertains an in and out Waltham eleven Saturday in another headliner on the same day Arlington High, which also has a chance to land the crown, plays host to Brockton High, defending champs.

Most of the teams came through as expected this past week-end with the exceptions of the Watertown vs. Somerville and Beverly vs. Gloucester games. After dropping two in a row, Somerville came back to eke out a 14 to 13 win over a favored Watertown eleven and Beverly, loser in but one contest out of five played this year, succumbed, 26 to 12, to an underdog Gloucester outfit.

PUBLIC SHOOTING SOUGHT

Open air rifle ranges in every city and town in New England as a home defense measure of 'preparedness for the unexpected" will be advocated at a joint meeting of the Massachusetts chiefs of police and the New England Police Revolver League to be held at Oak Hill Country Club, Fitchburg, tomorrow afternoon.

The sponsors of this movement hope to foster such ranges and will offer to donate their expert services to teach marksmanship to all citizens, Home Guards and firemen.

At the same time and for the same fine reason, the body in executive session is scheduled to unanimously endorse the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition, a first annual rifle shooting classic which fits perfectly 'n the home defense program.

Mayor Wollcott and Chief of Police Thomas J. Godley of Fitchburg are to be the hosts on the occasion.

Maj. Gen. Daniel F. Needham, Thomas F. Foley, chief of police in Worcester; John L. Maloney, chief of the Springfield police, and Owen A. Hoban, district attorney of Worcester County, will be guest speakers.

Many of the experts who will play a major role in the coming Hearst Rifle Competition will exhibit their shooting talents and their prowess as marksmen.

These veteran marksmen will be liberally represented in the Hearst shoot and tomorrow are expected to urge all citizens of New England from the lowliest tyro up to join the Hearst Competition family.

CREAM OF PURES BATTLE TONIGHT

By RINGSIDE

Several new champions are expected to be crowned at the Arena tonight when the Irish-American A. A. stages the Golden Gloves championship finals, first title event of the 1940-41 indoor amateur boxing season.

Boys like Fred Earle, 147-pounder from Sagamore on the Cape; Bob McCabe, sensational young lightweight, who works as a cook in the Army camp at Sharon; Sol Cesario, Boston middleweight; Bill Fitzpatrick, light heavy from Arlington, and John Pretzie, heavyweight from the Back Bay, have exploded so much power during the four Golden Gloves trials that they may unseat the more experienced performers.

It is a fighting card the Irish are presenting, with three bouts in each of the eight championship classes. The first bout will go on at 8:30.

PEPPI SURVIVED

So talented is the show that boys like Jimmy Mulligan of Lowell, New England welter champion, and Pat Devine of Cambridge, former New England light heavyweight champion, were unable to qualify for tonight's show.

Veterans who did come through are Tony Peppi, former New England A. A. A. U. and All-America flyweight king; Eddie DeAngelis, Revere, N. E. and state 112-pound champ who will try to win honors as a bantamweight; Steve Kronis of South Boston, state featherweight king who is liable to be knocked off by young Al Sforza, and Tommy Sullivan of South Boston, state light heavyweight champion who will have to fight his head off to emerge victorious in the field which includes Bill Fitzpatrick, Al Bellevieu and Jim Griffin.

GOOD HEAVY CARD

But the most savagely fought clash of the night should be the heavyweight, in which John Pretzie seems to have the upper hand.

Pretzie is the finest puncher to appear around here since Tony Ferry and Herb Coonan, and the Back Bay 198-pounder seems headed for a sensational career.

Other boys who have proved their fighting qualities in the preliminary sessions who will perform tonight are Paul Morelli of Haverhill, Dave Andrews of Lowell and George Katsekas, Manchester, N. H.

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

NO. 6

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games to be played each Saturday. Anyone may enter the contest excepting employes of the Record-American and their families.

The selections are listed on the chart here which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space nearest the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a tie game place the letter (T) in the spaces nearest the names of the tying teams.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except those for which you predict a tie score. Write winners' and losers' average score in space provided in coupon. Do not write individual scores in spaces or on the coupon. Indicate average scores only by adding scores of all teams and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Only ONE solution may be entered by a contestant. All entries must be in the office of the Record-American not later than Midnight Friday, the day before the games.

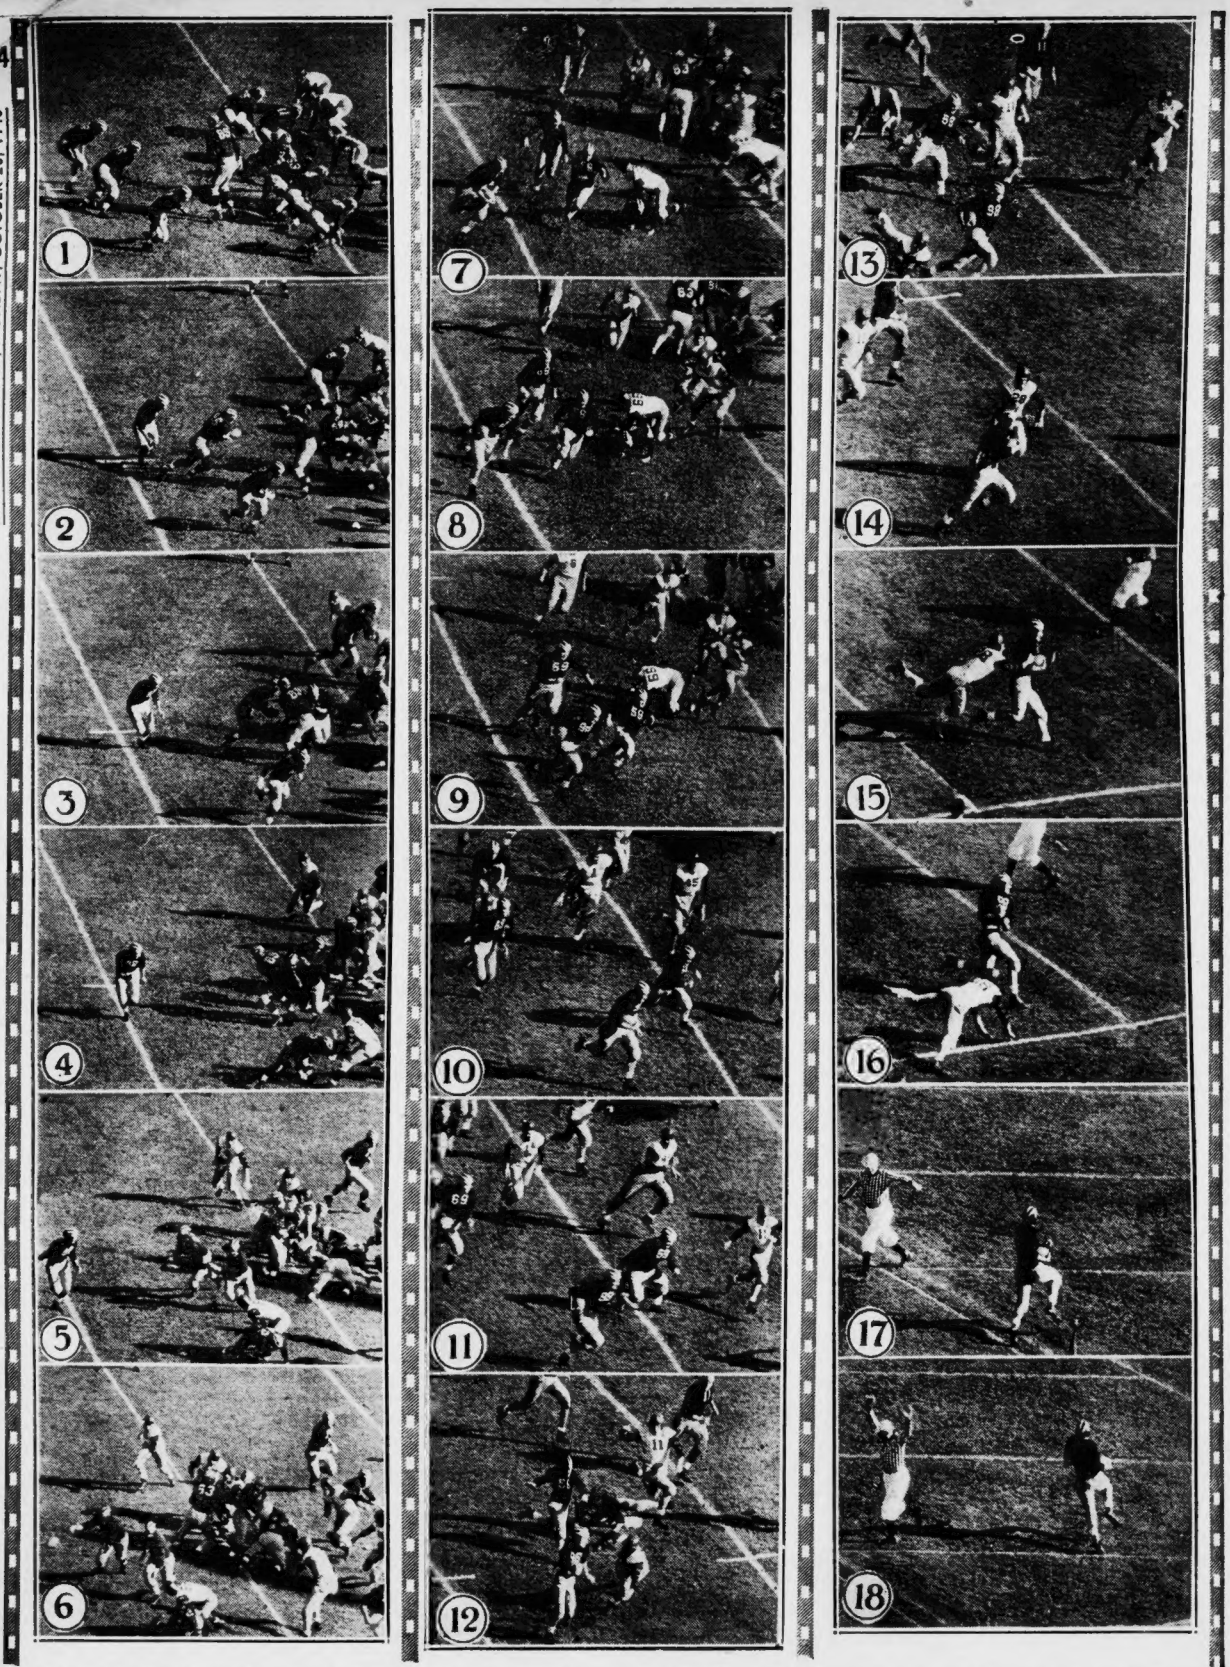
You need not buy a copy of the Record or American to enter this contest. Tracings of the contest form may be made from copies in the public library or in the Record-American office. Such entries will be acceptable and given equal consideration with those clipped from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person whose entries contain all selections correct. If more than one person submits perfect solutions, $100.00 will be awarded the tying contestant whose average score tabulations most nearly match with actual average scores of the games. If no perfect list of selections is entered $50.00 will be awarded to the contestant having the nearest number of selections correct and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the tying contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the award. A prize of $25.00 will be awarded the person submitting the second largest number of correct selections and should two or more contestants tie for this prize, tying contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $1.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in succession, the next largest number of correct solutions and whose average scores most nearly match the actual scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Saturday following the games. The decision of the judges in all cases shall be final.

Mail all entries to the Record-American Football Contest Editor, P. O. Box 1897, Boston, Mass.

In the event of postponement of any of the games, such games will automatically be excluded from the contest. In the event that the planned date of any game scheduled is changed, then that game is automatically excluded.



MAGIC-EYEING MAGICIAN TOM—Better than a million words is this great Magic Eye sequence of Tom Harmon making 19-yard run for first Michigan touchdown against Penn. Michigan won, 14 to 0. Here's why. Ball goes to Westfall, 86, who bucks forward. Harmon, 98 and Lockhard, 42, flank him. No. 69, Evashevski, takes ball from Westfall as Harmon edges to right, speeds up to take underhand lateral from Evashevski. Note Fritz, 63, Lockhard and Westfall blocking Penn men perfectly. Note 45, Engler of Penn, standing still, unable to follow ball. Harmon is away as Sukup, ●, and Evashevski form interference. No. 12, Penn's Shane, perils Harmon, who shimmies past him. Frank Reagan, 28, of Penn cuts across and gets hands on Harmon, who easily shakes off his foe, skips to touchdown.

CHI BEARS ROUT GIANTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (INS) — The Chicago Bears, tagged by Jock Sutherland as the "greatest team ever to walk on a gridiron," provided all of that in routing the New York Giants, 37 to 21, in a wild-scoring National Professional football game, the last quarter of which was played under flood lights.

DETROIT, Oct. 28 (INS)—Dick Todd's 61-yard touchdown dash in the fourth quarter kept Washington in the undefeated class as the Redskins defeated the Detroit Lions, 20 to 14.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (INS)—The Chicago Cardinals chalked up the second victory of the season by tripping the Cleveland Rams, 17 to 7, before and audience of 10,315.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 28 (INS)—The Green Bay Packers took over second place in the Western National Professional football standings by defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers, 24 to 3.

Finnegan Tops American Experts

Herb Finnegan led the American grid staff selectors this week as 12 of his choices were correct. The two he missed up on were the Bates-Maine and Columbia-Syracuse games, both of which were upsets.

Among Finnegan's selections were the Brown over Holy Cross, Wesleyan over Amherst and Upsala over Northeastern wins.

Jack Conway, Austen Lake and Mike Gillooly finished in a three-cornered tie for second place with nine correct choices.

Coast Player Dies of Injuries

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28 (INS)—Jack Tandy, 21, star tackle of the San Francisco State College grid team, died from a brain injury suffered in the game with California Polytechnic here Friday night.

Tandy was knocked unconscious in a pileup shortly after going into the game in the third quarter. Other players said they saw his head snap back sharply when he collided with an opponent.

SPECIALIST PREVENTS BALDNESS

BOSTON, Oct. 27 (JW)—"If you are losing your hair or have an annoying scalp disorder, you can be helped," says John E. Warner, noted scalp specialist. "By correcting and eliminating the cause of your trouble I can prevent baldness and give you a normal, healthy scalp. My services are NOT offered to those completely bald (except cases of alopecia areata) because hair once lost cannot be re-grown. Don't wait until disfiguring baldness has permanently ruined your appearance. If your head itches, or your hair is excessively dry or oily and falling, take heed of these signs of approaching baldness and come in for a free hair and scalp examination today. No case is ever accepted unless I feel sure you can be helped. My scientific treatment is superior and more effective because of constant research and study; yet the fees are within the reach of all. Come in today and learn how I can help you just as thousands of others, troubled as you are, have been helped." The Warner offices are conveniently located at 515 Washington St., near the corner of West Street (opposite R. H. White's), Suite 710-715. Phone Hub. 1705. Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. Daily—Saturdays to 6 P. M. Fees for treatment are very moderate. There is a separate department for women. Adv.
